EIGHTH ARMY SEIZES SOUSSE

$250,000 IN AS WAR LOAN DRIVE STARTS

Richland's $6,649,000 April Program Launched With Big Contribution.

HEAR SPEAKERS TONIGHT

Importance of Drive To Be Stressed at Meetings In Various Townships.

Start of Richland county's biggest war loan drive in its history this morning saw it $250,000 nearer that goal almost before the workers got started!

Subscription of this big amount was recorded by Paul M. Eliot, who with Henry G. Brunner heads the drive, but he didn't name the company that was responsible for it.

"That's just a start for which we are most grateful," he said, adding that "the next three weeks of intensive campaigning to raise the remainder of that $6,649,000 goal is the big thing."

At the same time, Eliot announced plans for meetings in various parts of the county.

Butler township, where Earl Heininger is chairman, and Worthington township, headed by H. C. Snyder, will meet in the Butler Grange hall at 8:30 p. m. to hear J. H. Gongwer explain the purpose and value of Ohioans digging down for $850,000,000 of which Richland county's townships and villages are expected to buy $500,000. Marshall Moore will explain similar data to Bloominggrove township residents at the Rome town hall at 8:30 p. m. today.

Eliot will address a Monroe township meeting in the Lucas school at 9 p. m. today while H. G. Brunner will speak to a Shiloh and Cass township audience in the Shiloh high school auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

The county's quota is split three ways. Mansfield is expected to raise $5,000,000; Shelby $1,100,000 and the remaining villages and townships $500,000.

Similar organizations are at work throughout the state and nation with many Ohio cities staging parades to mark campaign openings. A 40-foot bond pier, to stimulate Hamilton county's drive, was set up in downtown Cincinnati, where sale of $89,350 was reported Satur-

Ends Her Life By Igniting Clothes In Park At Shelby

SHELBY—Believed despondent because of ill health, Mrs. Paul Bushey, 52, mother of nine children, took her own life today in Seltzer park by igniting her husband's overcoat and newspapers which she had wrapped around her head and shoulders, Acting Coroner Blake Kohler said.

When her husband awoke about 5 a. m. and saw his wife was gone, he searched the house and found a note which indicated she planned to take her life. He called police who found the body about 7 a. m. near the Little House, Scout headquarters in the park. The Bushey home is about five blocks from where the body was found.

The coroner and Deputy Sheriff G. C. Humphrey said death was caused by suffocation. Mrs. Bushey's head and shoulders were Missouri County Buys Its Quota Of War Bonds.

COLUMBIA, Mo. —(AP)— The honor of being the first county to buy its quota in the war bond drive was claimed today for Taney county, famous as "shepherd of the hills" country.

Bob Hill, out-state chairman of Missouri's drive, said Taney citizens bought their allotment of $50,000 last Friday, mostly in bonds of small denominations with no large buyer.

COMING TO U. S.?

Giraud To Be Included In Allied Monetary Parley.

LONDON —(AP)— The Financial News reported today without confirmation that secret arrangements were being made to bring Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, commander of French forces in Africa, or his financial representatives to Washington for private negotiations in connection with the forthcoming Allied monetary conference.

HUNT SUSPECT IN 3 ROBBERIES

Police Spur Search After Bus Driver, Taxi Operator and Pedestrian Lose Cash.

Police today sought a short, heavy man about 23 years old believed responsible for a week-end crime wave in the city in which a city bus driver, a taxi operator, and a pedestrian were robbed and one of them beaten.

Lester Snyder, 197 South Diamond street, was treated at General hospital for head wounds believed inflicted by a black-jack as he walked home at 1:20 a. m. today. He was struck from behind near Diamond and East First streets, he told officers. The bandit took his purse containing $3.

D. C. Lape, 31, R. D. 2, driver for the Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc., was robbed of approximately $25 in his own and company funds at 10:20 p. m. Sunday by a man passenger who ignored a woman on the bus and held up the driver at the point of a gun. Leaving the bus near the end of West Third

DOZEN INJURED

Hurt When Seven Cars of Passenger Train Leave Rails.

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Twelve persons were treated in a hospital at nearby Indiana Harbor today for injuries suffered when seven cars of a Pere Marquette passenger train left the rails.

The accident occurred as the train neared Indiana Harbor en route to Grand Rapids, Mich. Six other cars remained on the rails. Cause of the derailment was not determined.

BRITISH SHIP SUNK

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The navy announced today that a small British merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by a submarine early in March in the Atlantic off the northern coast of South America. Survivors have been landed at Miami, Fla.

You'll Find No Safer Investment

EDITORIAL

TODAY marks the opening of a three-weeks campaign to place thirteen billion dollars worth of United States War Bonds in the hands of American investors.

Richland county people will have opportunity to buy $6,649,000 of these "gilt-edged securities" and residents of Mansfield are allotted $5,000,000 of this county total.

These are called War Bonds because their purpose is to draw money into the United States treasury to pay a part of the huge costs of war, but entirely aside from the dominating motive of buying bonds to back up Americans on the fighting fronts, there is the "sound investment" appeal to every person who has surplus money or whose present earnings are in excess of immediate needs.

It is pointed out that these bonds are an obligation of the United States government, the same as money, but that bonds pay interest while currency pays no interest.

Bonds not only provide money intended to insure your freedom — they pay interest, return the principal, and are as sound as the United States government.

And, here's a thought, the bonds that you buy will also provide cash when emergency needs arise, such as illness or other misfortune. There are those who look ahead to using money now being invested in bonds to meet the cost of educating their children or financing a new home.

Remember that when you buy a bond you are not GIVING anything, you are making a SAFE, INTEREST-BEARING INVESTMENT in your country and expressing your confidence in its future.

There is a kind of bond to fit your particular investment desire—large or small. Ask your banker for complete information about the several kinds of bonds.

Dads Get Draft Deferment In New Service Regulation

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt said today that every able-bodied man between 18 and 38 will be in the armed forces by Dec. 31 except for 3,200,000 in agriculture, the ministry and vital industries.

WASHINGTON—Thousands of men who became "dads" between the summer of 1941 and Sept. 15, were given draft-deferment status as fathers for the first time in a new regulation announced by selective service today.

Local boards were told to classify as fathers all those whose children were born before last Sept. 15. Fathers, now the only men deferred solely because of family relationship, cannot be drafted until further orders are sent to the boards.

Under previous regulations dependents acquired at a time a man's induction was imminent did not count toward deferment but this rule is now eliminated. Thus many fathers whose children were born during the period since drafting began late in 1940 and especially in the last two years of heavy draft calls, were subject to the draft because of the "imminence of selection" rule. Now, however, just so they became fathers before last Sept. 15 they have the same status as parents of three, four or more years standing.

The preferred draft-status of farmers, whose 2-C and 3-C classifications were left intact, was emphasized as the regulation:

Eliminated the nine-month-old 3-B classification, which had put all men having dependents and holding any job in an essential activity behind 3-A men of like family relationship in the order of call.

Ordered reclassification to 1-A

PAY-GO TURNED DOWN AGAIN

House Group Votes Against Reconsideration, 16-9, Along Party Lines.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The house ways and means committee voted down 16 to 9 today an effort by nine Republican members to reopen consideration of pay-as-you-go tax legislation.

The Republicans' motion to reopen the bitter tax battle was offered by Representative Reed (R-NY) while Secretary of State Hull stood before the committee awaiting to put in a plea for extension of the reciprocal trade agreements law.

Reed asked the committee to turn to the tax problem immediately after Hull had testified, and to defer reciprocal trade considerations until the committee reported a new pay-as-you-go tax bill to the house.

The move climaxed a Republican effort to obtain another vote in the house on the Rumd plan which would skip an income tax

Rommel's Africa Corps Driven Farther Back Into Tunisian Corner By Concerted British And American Attacks.

BULLETIN

WITH ALLIED FORCES, Kairouan, Tunisia—(Delayed)—April 11—(UP)—Armored reconnaissance cars from the British First army raced across the plains to the southeast of Kairouan where they contacted the British Eighth army in its swift drive up the Tunisian coastal road to Sousse.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (INS) — The Germans have seized the Italian fleet to protect evacuation of Axis forces from Tunisia, the Moscow radio declared today, according to the Reuter News service.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—The British Eighth army entered Sousse at 8:30 a. m. today in its rapid push northward along the Tunisian coast while First army units knocked out armored remnants of the German Africa Corps on the plain northwest of Kairouan after occupying that city yesterday.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's men were reeling under heavy blows from both ground and air forces and they offered light opposition.

The Kairouan plain engagement took place as German tanks were intercepted while attempting to escape northward. Ten of them were knocked out.

United States and British air forces struck terrifically again, leaving scores of enemy vehicles scattered in wreckage or in flames and shooting down a total of 41 enemy planes yesterday against a loss of 14 of their own.

American Lightnings caught another fighter-escorted transport formation crossing the Sicilian straits and destroyed 31 planes.

The second U. S. army corps under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., took Faid pass without opposition, adding another avenue through the central Tunisian mountain wall to the coastal plain penetrated Saturday through Fondouk pass.

The Eighth army's advance—125 miles from the Wadi El Akarit line in six days — was slightly impeded by demolitions and difficult country, but Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's vanguards developed little fighting in the Sousse area. The enemy had already pulled back toward the ridge running inland from Enfidaville, 27 miles north of Sousse.

The enemy's new position ranges 40 miles inland along this ridge and then turns northwestward, extending 90 miles to the Mediterranean coast near Cape Serrat, 35 miles west of Bizerte. French troops recently recaptured that cape.

Some 500 prisoners, mostly Germans, were taken by Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's First army.

After getting on to the green and flower-dotted plain of Kairouan from the Fondouk area, the

WORRIED: Hitler And Duce Confer In 'Stern Atmosphere'

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Adolf Hitler and Premier Mussolini have just concluded a four-day conference in the shadow of the most alarming Axis prospects since the war began — expulsion from Africa and imminent Allied invasion of the European continent.

The Axis leaders, according to the German radio, admitted their meeting was held "against a background of stern military events, especially in the Italian realm," but came up with the typical Axis statement that they had dedicated themselves and their people to "the complete annihilation of any future danger which might threaten the European-African area from the west or from the east."

The location of this twelfth war time meeting of the two European Axis partners, in which Japanese representatives apparently took no part, was described by the Axis radio as having occurred at "Hitler's headquarters," which could have meant almost anywhere in occupied Europe, even somewhere in Russia. Earlier reports had declared the meeting was to be at the Brenner Pass, on the Alpine border between Italy and Germany.

With Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa corps and its Italian supporting troops in full retreat up the Tunisian coast before British and American armies, and Italian cities, naval vessels and Mediterranean supply lines under violent Allied air attack during the week-end, British sources were quick to label

SMASHED: Allies Get 23 Planes As Japs Open Offense

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— American airmen, continuing their efforts to keep augmented Japanese airpower in the Solomons pinned to the ground, made three attacks on two major enemy air bases in the area, the navy announced today.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—Tearing into a formation of 45 Japanese air raiders over Oro bay, New Guinea, Allied fighters shot 23 of the planes out of action yesterday and broke up an assault which Allied headquarters characterized today as part of a new enemy air offensive in the southwest Pacific. An Allied communique announcing the smashing of the raid said the Japanese offensive "may attain a considerable scale of effort," judging from recent reconnaissance reports showing "major increases" in the enemy's air strength.

Allied air losses in the battle over Oro bay, which started in the sub-stratosphere, were described officially as negligible.

The enemy raiders, who succeeded in dropping 25 to 30 bombs, scored two direct hits on a 2,000-ton Allied merchant vessel and forced her to run up on the beach to avoid sinking, but other damage and casualties were light, the communique said.

Vegetables With Fish Nourishing

By BETSY NEWMAN

Fish dish served with vegetables and a simple dessert is nourishing and satisfying. It may be served on meatless day or any other day of the week By the way what do you do in the way of candy when the children's young friends come in for an evening of fun? Popcorn balls may be made with molasses or corn syrup as well as with sugar, and will taste just as good if not better. Try the recipe I'm giving you today.

Today's Menu.

Finnan Haddie a la Delmonico
Baked or Riced Potatoes
Buttered Cabbage
Raw Vegetable Salad
Broiled Grapefruit
Coffee or Substitute

Finnan Haddie a la Delmonico.

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
Beaten yolk of 1 egg
Salt
Pepper

Melt butter or margarine, blend in flour, add milk gradually, then return to fire, stir continuously until it is hot and thick. Pick 1 pound finnan haddie into small pieces, brown in little butter and add to white sauce. Just before serving add 1 teaspoon grated cheese and a hardboiled egg, the yolk of which has been grated and the white diced. Season with red pepper and salt to taste, and serve on toast or over riced potatoes.

Broiled Grapefruit.

4 grapefruit
8 maraschino cherries
½ cup corn waffle syrup

Wash and cut grapefruit in halves, loosen sections with knife. Cut 4 cherries in halves, the remainder in narrow strips, place halves in center of each grapefruit and use strips to outline each segment. Brush tops of grapefruit with corn syrup and broil slowly 20 minutes or until brown. Makes 8 servings.

Popcorn Balls.

1 cup light molasses
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon vinegar
3 tablespoons margarine or butter
3 quarts salted popped corn

Combine molasses, syrup and vinegar in saucepan and cook constantly until soft ball stage is reached (238 degrees F.). Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until the hard-ball stage is reached (270 degrees F.). Remove from heat, add butter and stir only enough to mix. Slowly pour over popped corn. Form into balls with the hands, using as little pressure as possible. Makes 16 to 18 balls.

Jellied Prunes.

2 tbsps. gelatin
½ lb. prunes
2½ c. cold water
1 c. sugar
¼ c. lemon juice
Salt

Wash and soak prunes for several hours (unless you get the tenderized kind) in 2 cups cold water, and cook slowly in same water until soft. Remove stones and cut in quarters. To prune liquid add enough boiling water to make 2 cups. Soak gelatin in ½ cup cold water for about 5 minutes, dissolve in hot liquid, add sugar and lemon juice; then add prunes, mold and chill. Stir twice while cooling to prevent prunes from settling. When firm, unmold and serve with sugar and cream. If preferred, prunes may be forced through a sieve. Serves 12.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

The scales in which I had been weighing the strength and nature of Katharine's feeling for her husband and for Hal Meredith now dipped toward Jack. Surely her radiant joy at believing I had a message from him could be rooted only in true wifely love, not pity.

"No, Katharine," I said slowly. "I am sorry, but it is not from Jack."

"Who then?" she asked, dull and listless

"Can't you guess?" I asked, dreading to bring what I feared would be a new problem into her life

"How can I guess?" she evaded. "I know it is important, or you wouldn't have wakened me. If it were bad news from the farm, your eyes would show it, and nobody else knows I am here"

"Some one else has found out," I told her, "someone who is devoted to you."

Her hand went to her throat, fluttering, frightened.

"You mean—Hal?" she asked

"Yes, Hal is downstairs. He says something strange has come up, and that he must see you. Something in his voice made me afraid of whatever news he is bringing."

"What did you tell him?"

"That you were asleep after a terribly fatiguing day, and that I did not wish to disturb you. Then he said not to waken you, but insisted that he must see me. I told him to come up in ten minutes."

She sat up and swung her feet to the floor.

"I must see him, of course," she said. "I owe him that much, and much more, and I must not put my burdens on you."

"Now you are talking arrant nonesense," I told her. "Besides, if you are in the living room when he comes up, he won't think much of my truthfulness Better let me hear first what he has to say. I'll tell him I'll look in to see if you are still asleep, and you can decide then what you wish to do."

Yields To Madge.

"I know what I wish to do now," she said, "but I'll let you arrange it your way. Only I shall get ready now to see him."

"Don't put on street costume," I cautioned her, "or he will know I was misleading him about your sleeping. Get into a house coat and pumps. That will lend an air of versimilitude to my story."

"All right, dear girl," she said with the wraith of a smile, "I'll do exactly as you say"

"Don't forget that you will have wakened just before I come in"

"I won't forget," she said, her voice suddenly tremulous, and as I went back to the living room the scales began to dip slightly again toward Hal.

I had little more than a minute left, and could not sit quietly and wait for Hal's expected knock, so I ranged up and down the room until the knocker sounded. Then I hurried to the door and extended both hands to Hal Meredith in cordial welcome, for I have great admiration and affection for the brilliant alienist who has loved Katharine so long, so chivalrously and so hopelessly.

"Come in!" I said, and showed him to a chair, which he took after I had seated myself. Then I offered him cigarets, but he shook his head.

"Thank you; afterward," he said tensely. Then he bent toward me and lowered his voice.

"Tell me," he said. "Has there been any attempt on the part of a woman to blackmail Katharine?"

Start Your Day Right by Doing Chores

By MME. QUI VIVE

This pulchritude preachment has to do with starting the day right, doing a few good looks chores before breakfast. It is not addressed to the wife and mother who, having to get breakfast, hustle the old man off to work and get the kids started to school—all of which entails whirlwind activities and much chasing about finding various articles and garments—but to the woman who fares forth for a day of toil.

Gobbling one's breakfast and getting into one's clothes in a mad rush is no way to start the day. It is the system followed by many a career girl who, after she arrives at shop and office, has to rearrange her tresslocks, do a little extra painting of the complexion. It is better to have the grooming job done for the day.

Pull out of bed in plenty of time. Yes, we know about those few extra winks While the water is running in the bath tub, drink a glass of water for the sake of your digestive system. Dip a washcloth in hot water, press it to your eyes, repeat several times. Follow with half a dozen cold compresses.

Now you are going to have five minutes of heartening exercise. Does the idea appall you? If you don't do it then, when will you do it? No time during the day You are too tired at night, so sneak out of it. The desk worker must have some sort of daily muscle stretching; if she doesn't get it she will develop chair spread. Weak muscles are tenements for fat cells.

Here is an easy one:

Sit on a low stool with the feet crossed Clasp your hands in your lap, bring them high above the head pulling in the abdominal muscles and throwing the chest forward. Stretch the arms and torso as high as you can. Drop the hands in the lap again, take a deep, long breath and repeat These movements will air wash your lungs, put blooms in your cheeks

Stand tall, touch the floor with your fingers without bending the knees Fine to keep the midsection slender

Into the tub or under the shower Have a brisk rubdown and a talcum or tonic friction

Cream your complexion, remove the cream with tissues, slap on cold water or apply an astringent If you use a foundation cosmetic the skin surface will be in good condition to accept it. It acts as a barrier against strong, cutting winds and this is the month for them.

On with the makeup. But ply the lipstick after breakfast because then you won't drink it or eat it.

Let No Child Hear Quarrel Of Parents

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

A few years ago, after I had conducted a forum with a group of fifth grade children, a little girl came to me as her class was dismissed and said, "Mr., please tell me what I should do when my mother tells me to do something and my father tells me not to do it. I love them both." I told her:

"Sometime when both parents seem to be happy and good natured, say to them something like this, 'Dad and Mother, I am troubled. Please help me Sometimes one of you tells me to do something and the other tells me not to do it. Then I don't know what to do. I want to obey you both but how can I at such times? Please won't you get together when I am not around and agree on what I may do or may not do, so I won't need to have such a hard time trying to do right?'"

Another Problem

Another letter stated a problem concerning a boy of 13. "The father is a well-bred man who works every day. When any work is being done at home, mechanized mostly, the boy is a great help. He can get the tools all ready, change a tire without help and is a willing worker. But if he gets tired or does anything wrong the father grows easily angered and a quarrel is sure to follow.

"The father resents any interference from the mother She has tried in every way possible to make him see that too much can't be expected from that age boy; also that when the boy does a nice job he should be thanked and told the job was appreciated. The father contends that he never was praised by his parents and was not allowed to talk back (which is a habit the boy has). But the mother does not approve of that either and does not interfere except when the father goes to extremes She says any child needs punishment at times but within reason"

The Doctor's Answer

In answering this letter I wrote that while I believe the boy should be praised more often by his father, be treated more patiently, and be punished less severely and more reasonably, I also felt pretty sure that the mother caused the father to be worse by her attitude toward him.

I suggested that if the mother would praise the father more often when he did well with the boy, if she would avoid criticizing him before the boy, and if she would stiffen up herself and be more exacting of the lad, especially in such matters as his talking back, I felt sure the father would grow more reasonable and lenient toward the lad. This principle applies to thousands of mothers. Their over-protectiveness often causes the father to grow far more severe.

Moreover, if in such cases as the foregoing, improvement is to come, the parents will have to work out their differences in the absence of the child and in his presence try to be as one. In my book, The Modern Parent, I have devoted a chapter to "Parents who disagree before their children."

A selected list of books for parents about family relations, about guiding the baby, child and adolescent, and the various common problems facing any parent almost daily, may be had without cost by writing me at 235 East 45th st., New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT THE TIME TO JUMP

You will practically never see a case of a side gaining by a jump bid after either member of the pair has made a game demand force of any kind. Since neither will drop the bidding at less than a game contract, except to beat up some doubled opponent who risks his neck with an interference bid, there is no need to be in a hurry. Taking it easy, with minimum calls after the force, may make it possible to show distributional features which result in the side picking out the best possible contract.

5 ♠	Pass	6 ♠

In the first summary above is the actual bidding on this deal in a rubber game. What it cost South to make that unnecessary jump to 4-Hearts was plenty.

West's club 7 drew the 10, K and A, the second round diamond was ruffed with the dummy's only trump, and the spade 2 was led for the purpose of trying the finesse, but East ruffed and returned a club, which West ruffed. Then East ruffed a second spade, West a second club and East a third spade. That made five tricks for the defense, putting South down two.

How much more profitable it would have been if South had taken his time, and had bid only a minimum 3-Hearts on his second turn, or else had doubled By using either method, his pair would surely have reached the safer spade contract, in which a small slam could be made, with the loss of no tricks except to the spade Q. Probably the heart rebid would have been sounder than the double, for North already knew about South's general strength from the opening two-bid, and the heart re-bid would have shown North that at least a five-card suit was held.

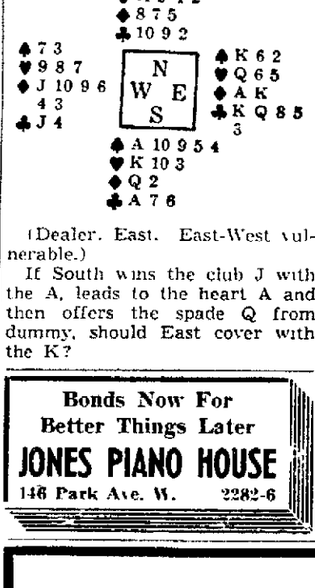
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer. East. East-West vulnerable.)

If South wins the club J with the A, leads to the heart A and then offers the spade Q from dummy, should East cover with the K?

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, April 13.

An extraordinary state of affairs may be looked for on this day, judging by the auguries. This may be expected in both business and private life. Romance is to the fore, with quite unprecedented and unpredictable denouement. It would be well to hew to the strictly conventional line, and with sagacity and good judgment, all may be well and happy. Maintain poise in most agitated situations, change cautiously and there may be decided progress

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the most unusual and unpredictable adventures and experiences during the year. Peculiar, weird and curious entanglements, possibly with romantic crises, may be expected, disastrous and devastating if wildly or impetuously embraced, but with happiness, financial gain and gratification if handled adroitly.

A child born on this day may possess exceptional talents and versatility, with strong intuitions and strange adventures in life.

ACT TO OFFSET COURT'S RULING ON SHARE-RIDE

OPA to Provide Releases For Drivers; Insurance Firms Also to Protect.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — The regional office of price administration announced a two-phased action to protect share-the-ride drivers from being sued for traffic accident injuries to their passengers.

James C. Gruener, regional OPA attorney, disclosed that:

The OPA soon would provide ration boards with legal release forms so that passengers would agree in writing not to sue the driver in event of an accident; and

Major insurance companies had pledged to furnish, without charge, liability protection riders to policies written before January, 1942. Since that time, Gruener added, most leading concerns have written such protection into their regular automobile liability policies.

The two protection moves were announced after a meeting with regional office of civilian defense officials to discuss effects of the Ohio supreme court's ruling this week on the government's tire-conserving car-sharing program.

The court held that drivers sharing their cars with fellow workers were liable, on proof of negligence, for injuries to their passengers and were not covered by the state's so-called guest statute.

Guerner said this in no way "prohibits car-sharing agreements, but merely makes the drivers responsible for their own negligence," adding:

"Under common law, those participating in a share-the-ride plan can release the driver from liability, giving him the same protection he has under the guest statute.

"Our rubber situation is too critical to justify any one lightly dissolving his share-the-ride group, and of course, it is illegal for any one to use gasoline without sharing his ride, if it is possible for him to do so."

Regional Rationing Chief Clifford Houser issued meanwhile a statement to clear up misunderstandings regarding renewals of supplementary rations.

"Since March 22, ration boards have been instructed to turn down applications for renewals unless the applicant is a member of a car-sharing group," Houser announced.

Boards have been told to refer riderless motorists to transportation committees if possible. Where no committees have been organized, he continued, the "burden of proving he cannot set up a group riding plan rests with the applicant."

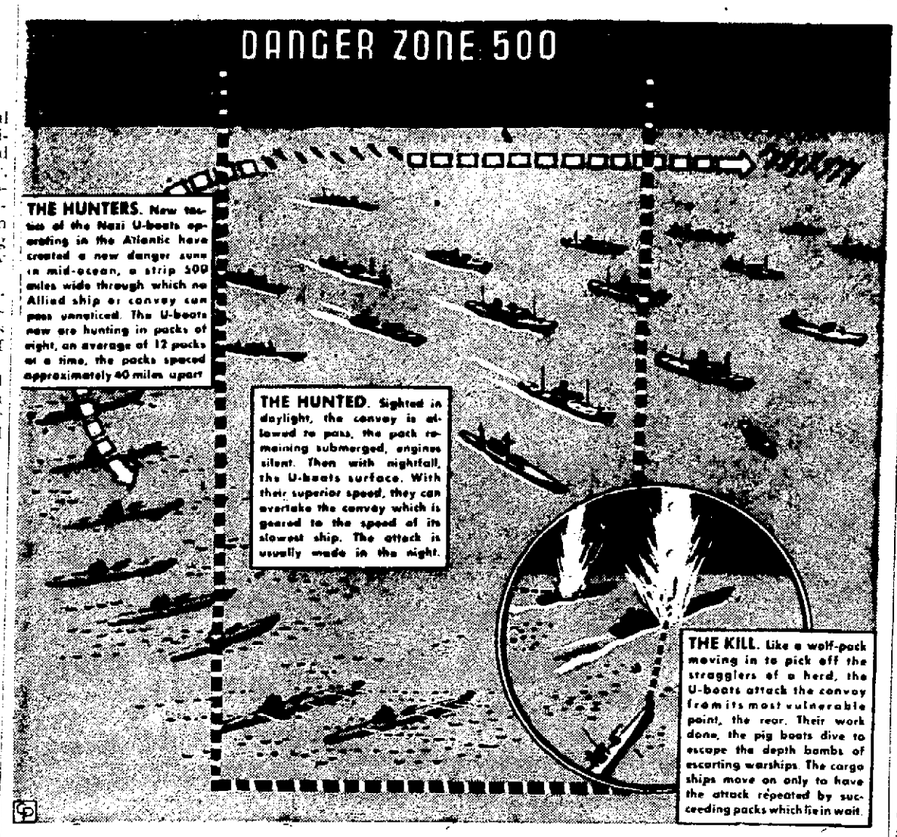
New Wolf-Pack Sub Tactics In North Atlantic



DANGER ZONE 500
THE HUNTERS. New tactics of the Nazi U-boats operating in the Atlantic have created a new danger zone in mid-ocean, a strip 500 miles wide through which no Allied ship or convoy can pass unnoticed. The U-boats now are hunting in packs of eight, an average of 12 packs at a time, the packs spaced approximately 40 miles apart
THE HUNTED. Sighted in daylight, the convoy is allowed to pass, the pack remaining submerged, engines silent. Then with nightfall, the U-boats surface. With their superior speed, they can overtake the convoy which is geared to the speed of its slowest ship. The attack is usually made in the night.
THE KILL. Like a wolf-pack moving in to pick off the stragglers of a herd, the U-boats attack the convoy from its most vulnerable point, the rear. Their work done, the pig boats dive to escape the depth bombs of escorting warships. The cargo ships move on only to have the attack repeated by succeeding packs which lie in wait.

HOW HITLER IS BRINGING HIS MOST EFFECTIVE WEAPON TO BEAR IN BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC

On schedule as promised, Hitler has opened up his spring drive on Allied convoys in the Atlantic. Shipping bound for Russia, England and Africa, bearing food and war materials essential for our own offensive operations in European theaters, has come under intensified U-boat attack. The Nazis hope the campaign will forestall any Allied second front on the continent of Europe this summer. To this end they have devised new methods of undersea warfare, new tactics to increase the efficiency of the already deadly U-boat, now hunting in packs and echelons of packs over a wide stretch of the Atlantic. (See diagram.) To combat them, new types of Allied destroyers, equipped with secret weapons and the latest detection devices together with faster cargo ships, are being rushed from the shipyards to convoy service. More important than any fighting front, this unpublicized battle may decide the outcome or at least the length of the war.

Grow Victory Garden on Paper First.

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Ass'n.

Before running the risk of wasting seed it will be well for the beginner to grow his or her Victory vegetable garden on paper first. When the garden is laid out on paper mistakes can be seen and corrected and it is much easier to correct mistakes with an eraser than it is with a garden spade.

The important factors to work out on a Victory garden plan are: size, arrangement, spacing of rows, variety of vegetables, intercropping and succession of crops. The Victory garden paper plan should also serve as a guide to the amounts of seeds necessary.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, it is best to plant Victory vegetables in rows running north and south. This gives the plants all the sunlight possible. Plant the tall growing vegetables such as corn and tomatoes at the north end of the garden plot, for if such vegetables are planted at the south end of the garden, for example, they are apt to shade the low growing rows from the sun, as illustrated.

String beans can be grown in the poorest soil while root crops, such as beets, carrots, parsnips and turnips should be planted in the deepest and richest soil so their roots will be long and well shaped.

Uses Barbed Wire To Get Electric Current to Farm

NASHVILLE, Ill. —(U.P.)— A Clifton county dairy and livestock farmer used 1,400 feet of barbed-wire fence to rip through a barrier of governmental red tape and is now obtaining the benefits of Rural Electrification Administration power on his farm.

The barbed wire came from the fence of Edward Hemker, who operates a 100-acre farm near Bartelso, Ill. Hemker had a lineman string the wire from his farm buildings to a power line of the Clinton County Electric Co-operative, Inc., an REA-financed utility.

When Hemker first declared he wanted electricity he was told he was eligible to receive the current but that the co-operative had no steel wire with which to make the connection. The co-operative had copper wire on hand, but a WPB ruling prohibited the use of it.

So the connection was made with a single strand of barbed wire, with the circuit grounded to complete the electrical transmission similar to the way an old-fashioned country telephone is grounded.

The Second War Loan Drive Is On! A Lot More Money Is Needed Now

Here is the Reason:

With every foot of ground taken . . . with every naval task carried out . . . with every bombing mission against the enemy . . . the costs of war increase.

This takes money. More money and still more money. That's why the Government of the United States is asking us to lend it 13 billion dollars in the next few weeks. Asking us to invest over and above our regular War Bond buying. And make no mistake about this: Uncle Sam's got to get that extra money to keep on fighting this war!

Build More - Fight More - Buy More Bonds!

IT ISN'T HARD to figure your percentage as an American. Just check what you are doing against what you could do if you gave every minute of your day, every ounce of your energy . . . and, yes, every drop of your blood . . . toward winning this war.

Many men and women have made that supreme contribution. Many more will make it—working, fighting, and dying—for American victory and American freedom. For the fight ahead is a hard one. We are just at its beginning, not at its middle, or near its end.

Of course, not all of us are—not all of us can be— in this fight with our lives. But every one of us, every man and woman, can be in it with our dollars!

TELEPHONE 4251-6

N THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

ASHINGTON — Saturday's dispatch was all wrong. I wrote that the White House had l everything up so that the press would have usual access to the United Nations food conce to be held late this month at Hot Springs, inia.

ut it hasn't been fixed up right at all. ome people in the government thought it had arranged. They discovered later they were g. At this writing, President Roosevelt is still insisting that reporters be excluded from the hotel where the United Nations conference is to be held He will allow them to be admitted only at staged public sessions, perhaps once at the opening and once at the closing.

Clapper

At other times, the hotel will be kept closed as a government reservation, exclusively for the official delegates at the United Nations conference. No reporter can go into the hotel to talk to a delegate. A British or a h newspaper correspondent is not to be allowed o into the conference hotel to talk with dele- s representing his own government.

Iichael J. McDermott, the veteran current- rmation chief at the state department, who ably handled press arrangements for dozens nferences, will have charge of press contacts the United Nations food conference. He has instructed to set up his press-relations office ie town at Hot Springs, and not in the con- ice hotel, so that he will be available at all s to reporters. As reporters are not to be ed inside the sacred conference precincts, the erence press officer must park outside where bnoxious gentlemen of the press may, n their y assigned roles as social lepers, beg for a ib of official information.

his is President Roosevelt's doing and it doesn't is judgment much credit.

le is persisting in it in the face of the most vigorous objection from Elmer Davis, head of OWI, and I think from the state department people themselves. I should be amazed if as practical a man as Sumner Welles would at heart be for any such arrangement as this. OWI people are convinced the scheme will break down after a few days. From the first they said it was a terrible mistake.

Of course you know what will happen, just as Elmer Davis, Mike McDermott, Secretary Welles and everybody else knows. The British representatives will get their word to their Reuters man, who will be hanging around across the street from the hotel. The Dutch will get their word to their man, who will also be hanging around across the street —unless the police drive him away because he wears a beard and looks like a suspicious foreigner. The Americans probably will get all the help that Mike McDermott can give them, but he obviously is going to be under wraps and so is every American delegate at the conference. They above all others cannot be sneaking out of the conference hotel to give any information to American newspaper reporters waiting on the curbstone in the village.

This is not a military conference. There is no reason for secrecy at all—not a single reason that any official can offer honestly except that Mr. Roosevelt wants it, and he wants it because he found it so much more pleasant at Casablanca not to have newspaper reporters around

We newspaper workers are not, perhaps, the most likable people in the world. We may not have the social graces that Groton and Harvard could have given us had we all been rich men's sons. We don't ask to sit at the table socially with these public servants. We can buy our own food.

But we do try to learn and understand what is going on. All that can be said in our behalf is that we are hired to try as best we can to keep the American people informed about their government. At least we are still assuming it is our government—the government that people are paying taxes to finance, buying bonds to support, and for which their sons are dying in tropical jungles and dirty Africa.

G. O. P. WAITING DEMS' REPLY TO CAMPAIGN OFFER

Propose Short Presidential Drive If FDR Won't Be 4th Term Candidate.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON-- All Washington, the Democrats and Republicans alike, today awaited the answer of Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, chairman of the Democratic National committee, to the G. O. P. offer of a short presidential campaign next fall if President Roosevelt will renounce a fourth term.

Politicos in the nation's capital were divided into two camps—one believing that Mr. Roosevelt will seek nomination again in 1944, the other feeling that he will not.

The G. O. P. proposition, advanced by Republican party Chairman Harrison E. Spangler in a letter to Walker, provided an opportunity for an early answer to the fourth term question. On the other hand, it is believed that the president will not have anything to say until next year and not before.

There was a widespread interest, however, in seeing what Walker would say on the Republican offer. Walker himself, recently proposed that the major political parties hold late conventions next year.

Spangler told Walker that if he can give assurance that the president will not be a candidate again "then you and I can sit down together soon and work out a formula to be submitted to our respective committee for approval."

"If you find you cannot give us such assurance," Spangler added, "we must assume that you have already nominated Mr. Roosevelt and we have nothing to discuss."

Spangler said that the country believed that the president and the Democratic committee "are now conducting a campaign for the fourth term" with all the preliminaries that marked the 1940 "draft" for a third term

"If Mr. Roosevelt is seeking a fourth term," Spangler said "then of course any convention your party may have will be, as it was in 1940, a mere gesture and it would be of small consequence to you whether such ratification convention were held early or late.

"A late Republican convention under such circumstances, however, would not only be unfair to my party but to the people of the country who might be deprived of a fair opportunity to judge our candidate."

RICK REVEALS HIS VIEWS TO SOLONS TODAY

Native Ohioan Who Escaped Death In Pacific Home For Speech Tonight.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS - Columbus, and the nation as well, today awaited the address of Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker, Columbus' favorite son, before a joint session of the Ohio legislature, which is scheduled for 9 p. m. today.

Capt. Rickenbacker arrived in Columbus unexpectedly Sunday 24 hours early aboard a T. W. A. plane from New York about the time Columbus' war loan parade was getting under way.

Hundreds of parade spectators at Broad and High streets never realized that an automobile that broke through the parade bore the famed flier to a downtown hotel.

On hand to greet him at Port Columbus yesterday were Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert; Thomas E. Bateman, clerk of the senate; Otis R. Johnson, clerk of the house; Senator Albert L. Daniels of Highland county, who introduced the resolution inviting the flier to address the state legislature tonight; and Commander Earle C. Peterson, head of the naval aircraft delivery unit at Port Columbus.

After a brief stop at his downtown hotel, Rickenbacker visited his boyhood home at 1335 East Livingston avenue, to see his sister, Mrs. Mary A. Pflaum, who resides there and explore once more the little workshop where he developed the mechanical genius that lifted him to the top in the automotive and aviation industries.

Capt. Rickenbacker expects to visit the Lockbourne army air base today and also will appear on the air base radio program, "This is Lockbourne," at 6:30 p. m.

Rickenbacker's address before the general assembly is expected to contain ample reference to production on the home front and especially on the role of labor. He also is expected to express his views on labor legislation pending before the Ohio legislature, which has been a source of weeks of controversy.

Since returning to the United States, following a miraculous escape from death in a life raft in the South Seas, Rickenbacker has critically assailed labor union practices, which he claims slows up the production line and the war effort. His speech before the assembly is expected to amplify his views on the matter.

HITS CONGRESS ON PAY RIDER

FDR Allows Debt Limit Bill To Become Law, Denounces Attached Repealer.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON – President Roosevelt was on record today with a blistering denunciation of congress for its action in attaching the salary-depriving "rider" to the bill increasing the debt limit from $125,000,000,000 to $210,000,000,000, which he allowed to become law without his signature at midnight, Saturday.

Declaring that the new debt limit was necessary to carry out war financing plans, the chief executive, in a formal statement explaining his action, asserted "If the circumstances were otherwise, I should veto the bill."

"Even so," he declared, "I cannot permit this legislation to become effective without registering my protest against the attachment to this bill of an irrelevant and unwarranted rider."

By permitting the measure to become law, Mr. Roosevelt accepted the action of congress rescinding one of his executive degrees which limited annual salaries to a ceiling of $25,000 after payment of federal taxes.

But the president, in reluctantly accepting the bill, called upon congress "at the earliest possible moment" to give consideration to imposing a "special war supertax on net income, from whatever source derived, which after the payment of all taxes exceeds $25,000."

Up and Down THE STREET

Singer Lawrence Tibbett had a red face today—but the explanation is not one you might guess. While Mr. and Mrs. Tibbett were week-end house guests of the Louis Bromfields at Malabar farm, the opera singer busied himself with tasks to which he is unaccustomed, like that of burning brush. The result: a red face and singed eyebrows.

MAPS CEILINGS ON MEAL PRICES

OPA Sets Last Week as Base Period: 'Freeze' Rests With Regional Offices.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON -- The office of price administration today set out to control the cost of "eating out" by authorizing ceiling prices on restaurant meals.

Officials admitted that although they can set maximum prices for the cost of a restaurant dinner, they have virtually no control over the size of portions or the quality of the food

The machinery set up for the new OPA program establishes a precedent. It will be under the control of regional OPA administrators who will issue a local freeze order only after it has been determined that restaurant meals have risen in price, reduced in quantity or deteriorated in quality.

Last week -- April 4 through April 10 was established by the OPA as the base period and every eating and drinking place in the country was ordered to file with local ration boards by May 1 a copy of each menu or price list used during that week.

The decision to "freeze" prices in effect last week or to establish ceilings below those prices if the base period prices were "abnormally high," rests with the regional OPA director. He also may establish dollars and cents prices expressing the maximum price a restaurant may charge for meals or for individual dishes or beverages.

IN HOLLYWOOD-- By Robbin Coons

LLYWOOD—Shelton Brooks, the famous colred composer, happened to be in a saloon years ago. Next to him a girl and a man arguing, the girl sometimes pleading Whatever the girl said had no effect on him," cs recalled. "Finally, in a huff, the girl turned from the fellow. Her parting shot was, 'some ese days you're gonna be sorry. You're gonna me'."

ithout knowing it, that girl gave Brooks the cue and the inspiration for one of the greatest of American popular tunes.

Coons

Brooks hurried from the saloon to a theater, where he happened to be working, and toyed with that phrase and the piano. The result was the perennial favorite, "Some of these days, you're gonna miss me, honey."

* * *

That incident represents how, in many cases, song writers get their spur of the moment inion. The dean of Hollywood's song writers, l Harry Warren, teamed up with Mack Gor- o do the score for "Sweet Rosie O'Grady." ie side, they came up with the popular hit, id the Craziest Dream." Inspiration was sup- one morning when Mrs. Gordon told Mack: d the craziest dream last night."

Recently a couple of young song writers were teamed to do a score for "Youth On Parade." They were Jule Styne and Sammy Cahn (pronounced Cahn).

"Jule was running over a tune on the piano and asked me what I thought of it," Cahn related. "I told him I heard that song before. He convinced me it was original and we went to work."

You guessed it. It turned out to be "I Heard That Song Before," which has skyrocketed into one of the nation's current song sensations.

Getting back to Warren, he continues to set the Hollywood song pace. His career spans more than 22 years and in that time he has written more than 500 melodies and a great number of them have become popular as an extinguished Jap.

His first hit, published in 1922, was "Rose of the Rio Grande." He followed with such stuff as "Chattanooga Choo-choo," "Lullaby of Broadway," "Down Argentina Way," the scores for the musical comedies "Forty-Second Street" and "Gold Diggers," "I Found a Million Dollar Baby," "Cheerful Little Earful," ad infinitum.

To the fraternity, he is known as the "Squire" because his beautiful estate—which he got for a song—is where the tune trade hangs out.

Grayish and fiftyish, Warren keeps rolling along just like "Old Man River," one of the few songs he didn't write.

Sport Podge

Followers of Mansfield high school football fortunes tomorrow afternoon, or evening, whichever you consider 5 p. m., will get their only opportunity of the spring to see their heroes in action against outside opposition.

Galion high's Orangemen, rated as the N. C. O. league team with the best chance of ending Marion Harding's perennial reign in that circuit, will invade the Tyger practice field, back of the stadium, for a practice scrimmage with Coach Paul Snyder's youngsters.

The engagement will prove nothing in a competitive way, but fans who like to have the low-down and inside on the situation shouldn't miss the scrimmage, which, of course, is free for the spectators.

There seems to be some discrepancy in the reporting of a similar practice session between the two teams at Galion last week.

Coach Snyder brought back word that after a long scrimmage session, an 8-minute period of regular game conditions was played, with the Tygers winning 18-0.

The Galion paper said a 30-minute game was played with the final score 13-6 in favor of Mansfield.

"Galion did score on our third team," says Snyder, "and maybe it took 'em half an hour at that." Just to keep the record straight, the Galion paper did say the Mansfield third team was on the field, meaning a team composed of boys who are now in John Simpson junior high school.

In the above paragraph I might have said "junior high school players." It just happened they were John Simpson junior high gridders because none of the Johnny Appleseed gridders who reported for spring practice with the Tygers stuck through to the end.

Only Appleseed boy still on the Tyger squad is a lad named Schmidt who was not out for the Appleseed team last fall. And he makes the fourth Schmidt on the squad, the others being Roland of last fall's Tygers, and Paul and Otto of the Simpson Bulldogs.

So that the record may continue straight, I hope they don't get all four Schmidts in the Tyger backfield at the same time, although it could happen.

With the spring training season coming to a close, I asked the Tyger tutor if he wanted the News-Journal to take a picture of his squad, and got the surprising answer: "No."

Snyder explained: "I wouldn't want to look at the picture next fall and see the squad I might have had. I'd rather wait and see what I get. Bob Hall just quit the squad, saying he was going to enlist, and I don't know how many more will do that before next fall."

TONY OFFERED SPOT ON MILWAUKEE CARD

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — (U.P.) — Morrie Zenoff, president of the Victory Sports club, today telegraphed Tony Galento, New Jersey heavyweight, an offer to fight Johnny Roszina, Milwaukee, in an eight-round semi-windup match here April 30.

Galento announced recently that he would start training for a comeback and expected to make his first bout in about five weeks.

Bucks Prepare To Lose Star

Also Get Ready For Haphazard Season.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio State University's National champion football squad launches its outdoor spring training drills today in preparation for what Buck Coach Paul Brown says will be "a haphazard" season.

The spring drills end May 22 with the annual intra-squad game in Ohio stadium.

Asserting that he expects football in this war year to be on "a haphazard basis," the Buck coach said the aim at Ohio State would be "to perpetuate the game."

We'll make the best of what we have . . . and work hard—harder even . . . and we'll keep going as long as we can put 11 men on the field," he added.

* * *

Some idea of what "the best of what we have" will mean may be gleaned from a quick look at the squad statistics. When Brown opened inside spring drills a few weeks ago, he invited "anyone who thought he could play" to participate. Some 54 hopefuls reported, but only 33 applied for equipment for outdoor drills.

"We had nine practice sessions in the gymnasium," Brown said, "and we lost 21 players, and a lot of talent was among the ones we lost, too."

But for the war, the Bucks would have 39 veterans returning from the squad which won national and western conference championship laurels last season.

Among the Bucks headed for the armed forces are Captain and Tackle Chuck Csuri, Guards Martin Amling and Wib Schneider, and Halfbacks Tommy James and Bob Frye of the 1942 varsity.

Others entering service include Wayne Caldwell, All-Ohio scholastic center from Springfield; All-Ohio Tackle Lou Groza of Martins Ferry, rated by Brown the nation's best placekicker; Ernest Savory, all-state halfback from Lynn, Mass.; Hank Parman, Dayton end; Leonard Puhalla of Austintown Fitch, and Jack Doudna of Huntington, Ind. All were freshmen.

* * *

Although Brown isn't sure how long he'll have them, eight members of last year's squad are on hand. They are Center Gordon Appleby, Guard Bob Jabbusch, Tackles Jack Dugger and Bill Willis, Ends Cecil Souders and Don Steinberg, Quarterback Paul Selby, and Halfback Les Horvath. Thornton Dixon, a lineman who played the final season of a three-year career at Ohio State under Brown may also be available under present Big Ten rules permitting athletes four years' services. He and Horvath are in dental college, exempt from military drill.

A-Leaguers Fail To Hit

Only Two Keglers Get Series of 600.

City "A" league keglers were off the beam at Colony alleys last night, marking up only two 600 scores, a 633 by A. Hipp and a 617 by W. Huck.

Huck rolled high game of 266, then fell off to 148 and bounced back to 203.

PLAY FOR SOLDIERS

SEYMOUR, Ind.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox and Cubs filled an open date on their spring exhibition schedule today by coming here and clashing in another of their information games for the benefit of the soldier fund at the Freeman air base. Catcher Clyde McCullough, who ended his holdout siege Saturday, may see action for the Cubs.

From the Minors

EDDIE HANYZEWSKI, 21-year-old South Bend, Ind., youth who came to the Chicago Cubs' camp last year and made quite a hit, only to be sent to the minors, is making a new name for himself in camp this year. Hanyzewski, who has pared his weight down from over 200 to 185, is a righthanded pitcher with a blazing fast ball. He has been working out all winter at Notre Dame and in practice has handcuffed the Cub batters. With Milwaukee half of last season, Hanyzewski won seven and lost two games.

DiMaggio Clouts For Service Club

HOLLYWOOD - (U.P.)—It was a World series setting as Joe DiMaggio knocked the dirt from his spikes and stepped to the plane.

It was the ninth innings. The bases were loaded with two out. The score was tied, 2-2.

It wasn't a World series. It was just a game between the Service All-Stars and the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast league.

But 11,000 fans, attracted by the magic of the name DiMaggio, pleaded for a hit.

DiMaggio took a toehold, swung and sent a screaming single to left, scoring two mates.

The Service team, with such stars as Harry Danning, Bobby Sturgeon and Max West, went on to win, 5 to 2.

But the 11,000 fans remembered most how DiMag came through with another storybook finish.

Cy Hassinger Leads Rifle Club

Cy Hassinger was high gun in the Mansfield Muzzle Loader Rifle club shoot Saturday with a percentage of 66.6 in six matches in the 30-yard offhand event. E. Adams and E. Wagner tied for second at 33 3.

J. Baldinger took first in the 50-yard rest shooting with a 2.60 string for three shots, E. Light was second with 2.64, and E. Adams third with 2.79.

WHIRLY AND ALSAB RACE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO —(INS)—Prospects for the resumption of that old turf feud between Whirlaway, leading money-winner of all time, and Alsab appeared bright today with the announcement of Al Sabath, the latter's owner, that his colt will do most of its campaigning on Chicago tracks this summer.

Warren Wright, owner of "Whirly," had said he expected to send his horse here for the summer season.

BARTELL IMPROVES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Dick Bartell, veteran New York Giant infielder, had the tape removed from his injured wrist today but is not likely to see action against Brooklyn in the game at Camp Dix today. Ace Adams and Tom Sunkel will hurl for the Ottmen.

National Boxing Tournament Opens

BOSTON —(INS)— For the 33rd time in their 55-year history the National AAU boxing championships get underway in Boston this afternoon, winding up tomorrow night.

A major revision is the telescoping of the program into two days and the abandonment of the multiple ring system.

Ninety fighters are entered, including three 1942 champions, but boys in blue and khaki provide some of the principal threats.

* * *

The 1942 titleholders are Leroy Jackson of Cleveland, who won last year as a flyweight and fights today as a bantam; Samson Powell, also of Cleveland, who defends against the middleweights, and Bob Foxworth of St. Louis, Md., in the light heavy division.

DOUBLE DEFEAT

EVANSVILLE, Ind. —(AP)— The Detroit Tigers, who recently picked themselves as contenders for the American league flag, had a double defeat to explain today. The regulars were crushed, 13 to 2, by the Pittsburgh Pirates while the seconds were blanked by Minneapolis of the American Association, 3 to 0, in a pair of Sunday games.

Compare Count and Man o' War

Turf Hears Tale of New Wonder Colt.

By CHARLES MOREY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Ever since that autumn day in 1920 when Man o' War was retired to stud, horsemen have wondered if there ever would be another horse with the speed and power of Big Red. For a while War Admiral, a son of the Riddle giant, looked like he might be the one. But he was too small and failed when the pressure was on.

* * *

Once again this spring the turf is hearing the wonderful tale of a "wonder colt." His name is Count Fleet. He's a high-headed, wild-running son of Reigh Count and he's owned by Mrs. John Hertz of Chicago. He's the shortest winter-book favorite, at 6-to-5, in the history of the Kentucky Derby and his recent workouts have been so fast that even case-hardened turfmen are saying he may be another Man o' War.

* * *

So far the Count has two things in common with Big Red: He runs with his head held high and he likes to go to the front from the drop of the flag and run his opposition into the ground. Whether he has the brilliant spark of greatness that set Man o' War apart only time will tell.

Right up to the moment that he first stepped into a starting gate at Belmont Park last June, nobody around the Hertz stable thought the Count was going to amount to much. As a yearling, he was offered for sale for $4,500 with no takers. In his early juvenile workouts he was so wild and unruly that Trainer Don Cameron despaired of ever changing him into an efficient running machine.

But once allowed to run in the excitement of actual competition the Count soon showed them that his wildness was only eagerness—eagerness to run faster than any two-year-old ever had run before him. He was second in his first start, won his next and went through the summer improving with every race and never finishing worse than second.

By the fall of the year the brown beauty was one of the juvenile leaders and was made favorite for the Belmont Futurity because of an amazing six furlong workout in 1:08 1-5 down the Wiedner chute. He ran a dull race in the Futurity, finishing third back of Occupation but bounced back the next week with a 1:34 4-5 mile in the Champagne Stakes, the fastest eight furlongs ever run by a two-year-old.

* * *

In the Pimlico Futurity he thoroughly flattened Occupation, winning by four lengths, and closed out the season by romping home a 30-length victor in the Walden Stakes. The Count went into winter quarters the undisputed king of the two-year-olds and certain favorite for the Kentucky Derby.

Oregon Girls Cop Tank Title

Four-Girl Team Scores Sweeping Victory.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The Multnomah Athletic club of Portland, Ore., holds the national A. A. U. women's swimming championship for the first time in its history.

The Portland aggregation ended the three-day meet yesterday with 43 points, 12 more than the second-place Riviera club of Indianapolis.

In a sweeping victory seldom equalled by so small a squad, the four-girl team won five of the 11 events contests. They entered only six events, and took second place in the 440-yard free style, the only one they lost.

Brenda Helser, Stanford university freshman, brought Multnomah its first victory of the final competitive session, leading Joan Fogle of Indianapolis by nearly 200 feet in the 220-yard free style.

The Multnomah team raced far ahead of all competition to win the 300-yard Medley relay in the closing contest. Suzanne Zimmerman, individual 100-yard free style and backstroke champion, led off for the Portland team and built up a five-yard lead on the backstroke portion of the race.

Nancy Merki, who placed second in the 440-yard free style, held the margin on the 100-yard breast-stroke section. Then Miss Helser swam away from all competition in the anchor free style leg, winning by 30 feet over the Women's Swimming association unit of New York. Fourth girl in the Portland championship team was Maryanne Hansen.

Third place in the meet went to the Women's Swimming association with 22 points, nine under Indianapolis' 31.

Somethin' new's been added to the Belmont Park, New York, turf colony. She is Rosemary Blackburn, one of the few feminine exercise "boys" in turfdom. And she's very capable, too.

Marse Joe Has Conference With Press In Night Club

By DILLON GRAHAM
(AP Features Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—You're in a night club in Asbury Park, N. J. A group of fellows are sitting in a darkened corner. Far across the room there's a long bar and you can see a few customers sitting on stools and the bartenders mixing drinks.

A girl is playing a lively tune on a piano. There's sort of a stale, morning-after, hangover smell about the place. It is 2:30 p. m.

Your group of fellows are asking questions of a chunky dark haired chap in his 50's, who is stingy with his words. He wears a brown snap-brim hat and a leather jacket over his shirt and puffs slowly on a cigar.

Joe McCarthy is holding a press conference.

That, to me, was the biggest laugh of the trip to all 16 of the spring training baseball camps. Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, a solid citizen who probably has seen the inside of few night spots, a taciturn fellow, choosing a night club in which to receive the press.

Sure, it's afternoon and the night spot is under the lobby of the hotel housing the Yankees in Asbury Park. It probably was the only spot where McCarthy could have absolute privacy that time of day.

McCarthy is very miserly with words and opinions. He isn't too sure of the press. He weighs every question carefully before he answers it. And he brushes off many with the remark: "It's too early now to say."

About the only definite statement you can pin on Plump Marsa Joe is that the Yankees will definitely be represented in the American league and that they might possibly win more games than some other clubs—that from a guy who knows perfectly well that nothing short of a wholesale induction of his entire club into the armed services can prevent the Yanks from winning the pennant again.

You must give Joe a hand though, he does admit that he hopes to play George Stirnweiss at shortstop, if the youngster's draft board permits, and Bill Johnson at third. The other newcomer—not counting first baseman Nick Etten, who was a major leaguer with the Phils—probably will be right fielder. Bud Metheny, who did patrol duty for Newark last year.

There'll be a new figure wearing the Yankee's No. 3 jersey this year, the number that once rested on the broad back of Babe Ruth. When the Babe passed out of the league eight years ago, No. 3 went to George Selkirk. Now Twinkletoes' days are over, he's in the army, and No. 3 will be worn by Bud Metheny.

The youngster is tabbed to team up with Charley (King Kong) Keller and Stormy Weatherly in the Yankee outfield. It happens that the Yanks were scouting Metheny about the same time they were giving Keller the eye. And, actually, the reports then rated Metheny as better than Charley.

Charley was graduated from Maryland U. before Bud got out of William and Mary and so made an earlier debut in pro ball. He was, as you know, a flash from the start and now is one of the league's highest-priced flychasers.

Metheny started pro ball in 1933 at Norfolk—along with Scooter Rizzuto and Gerald Priddy, and went with them to Kansas City the next season. There he hit .315 for the Blues but hurt his knee sliding into base. That required an operation and in 1940 he hit .310 for Newark. He shuttled back to KC in 1941 and then got ticketed for Newark last season. There he hit .296, poled out 18 homers.

But for the knee injury, Metheny might have come up to the Yanks two years ago with Scooter and Jerry. Bud was clean-up batter for the Bears. He's a pull hitter and thinks he'll bang major league tossing.

The Yanks are experimenting, too, with Johnny Lindell in the outfield. Lindell was a pretty fair pitcher but maybe not quite up to major league snuff. Anyway, the Yanks have good pitching and need more ball hawks, so Johnny, who can slap a ball far, is doing his spring work in the outer pastures. He has been leading the Yankee attack in the early exhibition games. However, it's doubtful if Lindell will oust Metheny while Keller and Weatherly are sure things. Tuck Stainbuck, the veteran, is still around, too.

Rochester Isn't Kidding

Radio Comedian Could Be Winner of Derby.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Rochester, as you probably have heard, is a radio comedian, but he isn't kidding about burnt cork in this year's Kentucky derby.

As a matter of fact, the Negro gagster—the right name is Eddie Anderson—is one of the very few stage characters who hasn't entered his gee-gee in the derby just for the headlines.

So, if you're stabbing at something "at a price" for the big May day party, the solid, husky son of Mr. Bones stands just as much chance as the next fellow. When the necklace of roses is handed out, it could very well be Rochester who will be reaching over with his "Ya-a-s, Boss" and pick it up.

The Cork was a $400 yearling bargain and rang the cash register for a neat $10,530 last year. He has looked so good in working right on the derby "home grounds" these last few weeks that he's even impressing the hardboots.

As a result, he's been put well up among a set of dark horses who are receiving considerable attention. Among the others are the trio from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable—Noonday Sun, Four Freedoms and Famous Victory; the pair from William Dupont's Delaware barn—Suncap and Supermount, from among the first sons of Rosemont; Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' No Wrinkles, also working well down at the Downs; Texas Ben Whitaker's Pop's Kick, a star of the New Orleans winter campaigning; Townsend Martin's Bankrupt, the pet of the two-buck hunch players because of his name, and William Woodward's Bossuet. Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons' hope for his fourth derby win.

Vandy Stars As Reds Beat Tribe

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — (AP) — With two down and seven to go, the Cincinnati Reds called on Lefty Clyde Shoun and Rookie Bob Malloy to perform mound chores today in an effort to extend the victory string over the Cleveland Indians to three games. The contest is carded for Fort Benjamin Harrison with a large soldier gallery in prospect.

* * *

Meanwhile the Rhineland camp was buzzing about Johnny Vander Meer's performance in yesterday's 5-2 win over the American leaguers before nearly 5,000 in Indianapolis. Vandy chipped in with five strikeouts and six assists in limiting the Indians to four safeties in seven frames.

* * *

One of the hits off "double no-hit" was a 365-ft. home run drive over the left field scoreboard, depriving Cincinnati of a shutout victory.

The performance practically cinched opening day hurling duties for the left-handed strikeout king.

Stengel Calm on Holdout

Declares Lombardi Still Brave Property.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Casey Stengel, sail-eared pilot of the Boston Braves, relaxed in his hotel room while we discussed the war with him and his two coaches, long George Kelly and big Bob Coleman.

Now and then Casey would bend down to trace a convoy route or a battle front on the carpet with his finger. He gazed meditatively at his invisible drawings on the carpet and said, "with warm weather approaching, I am concerned chiefly with the Russian situation."

We said, "we thought you were concentrating on the Italian situation."

The preplexed pilot pointed at the carpet and demanded, "how's that?"

"Lombardi!" we explained.

"Oh, Lombardi—," Casey said. "I'm not concentrating on that guy. There's nothin' new on him. He's still our property. No other club owns any part of him. He's still out at his home in Oakland, California.

"Because of the great shortage of players right now, another club contacted him and is trying to jockey him away from us—got him all steamed up so he doesn't think he's getting enough money from the Braves. Well, if big Ernie doesn't want to play with us, we'll let him go in any deal that will benefit our club."

"Was any such deal on the fire?"

Stengel didn't know of any current negotiations.

Writers traveling with the Braves say the Giants are after Catcher Lombardi, the National league's leading batsman last season. They say President Bob Quinn of the Braves would have traded "the Schnoz" to the Giants for Catcher Hugh Poland and Sid Gordon, a utility infielder or outfielder, were it not for the possibilities of Gordon's induction into service.

They say there is no truth in the report that the Braves considered trading Lombardi for the Giants' infielder, Connie Ryan.

We asked Stengel how he was getting along with Lefty Gomez, the witty southpaw veteran whom the Bostonians obtained from the Yanks. Casey said, "swell! Lefty's a great feller — always wisecrackin'. 'Course it's too early yet to tell whether he'll be much help to us. He looked all right against Newark as we won five to two. Without bearing down much, he allowed four hits in four innings. They got a run off him, but it wasn't earned. He got out of trouble in the fourth after the bases were loaded with one out. I won't try to use him too much until the weather gets warmer."

Heath Signs With Indians

Hockett Returns To Bolster Outfield.

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—Twenty-four hours ago Roy Cullenbine and Rookie Hank Edwards were the only outfielders in the Cleveland Indians' camp and Manager Lou Boudreau had disclosed he would open the American league season with a pitcher in left field if necessary.

He had decided Al Milnar, Allie Reynolds and Steve Gromek would alternate, depending on whether a left or right-handed hurler was facing the Tribe.

Today Boudreau could boast of four fly-chasers. First came the announcement holdout Jeff Heath had left a Seattle, Wash., shipyard for the ballyard. The hard-hitting gardener agreed to terms in a long distance telephone conversation with Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh.

Peckinpaugh indicated the management had increased its salary offer, but that the figure agreed upon represented a compromise. It was believed to be $12,000 as compared to the $15,000 Jeff received last year.

The next development was Oris Hockett's return to camp. Hockett returned last night after jumping the team Saturday, but refused to divulge any reason for departure to his home in Dayton.

HITLER, DUCE PONDER CRISIS

Axis Leaders Confer on 'Stern' Military Situation, Keep Meeting Place Secret.

the Axis talks a "crisis conference."

Previous conferences between the Axis leaders have usually been followed within a few weeks by new military ventures.

The last one, ten months ago, was followed by Rommel's push into Egypt, which ended with the cracking of the German positions at El Alamein and the beginning of his long retreat now backing up into the dangerously restricted area of Axis fortifications around Tunis and Bizerte.

The full dress parleys just ended were attended by such key German figures as Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the supreme command of the armed forces, and naval chief Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz.

One Berlin broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said the conferees had studied a special survey of "continental reserves" prepared for the occasion, which "had strengthened the conviction of those taking part in the conference that the new development of (Axis) strength will not be impeded by enemy action."

The Italian newspaper La Tribuna Illustrata was quoted in another Berlin broadcast as declaring Hitler and Mussolini would decide "whether and when" New York city is to be bombed.

"The new German Heinkel-177 bomber could easily bomb New York from air bases in western France," the newspaper said.

CONSERVATION GROUP ELECTS

BUCYRUS—Lloyd Volk was returned as chairman and Dr. W. G. Talbott was re-elected vice chairman when the Crawford County Conservation council re-organized and considered conservation measures for next year at its annual meeting. S. J. Schell was named as secretary.

To represent the group at the state and district conservation meetings to be held this month, Roma W. Stahl of Galion and Choice Gulver were selected.

The council went on record as recommending that laws and regulations governing the hunting season remain unchanged and adopted a resolution urging the adoption of the 15 point state conservation program.

PIN REMOVED

SHELBY — An open pin had been removed today through an operation at Shelby Memorial hospital from the stomach of Mary Ann Southard, three-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Southard, 40 Auburn street.

The baby was reported by hospital attaches to be recovering from the operation. The pin was swallowed by the baby while it was playing with a blanket.

HEADS DRIVE

GALION — Galion's campaign committee in the Second War Loan drive is headed by Alvin W. Kline, secretary-treasurer of the Stratbury Manufacturing company. He replaces Harold B. Newman, president of the company, who declined the chairmanship because of other pressing business.

Kline was named at a meeting held in Bucyrus, Friday night.

CRESTLINE — Mrs. Claude Waltz of 145 West Main street, and Mrs. Tilden Beck, of 117 Pierce street, were admitted to Emergency hospital Saturday.

PARENTS OF DAUGHTER

GALION—Mr. and Mrs. Adam MacAdam, 408 North Columbus street, are the parents of a daughter born at City hospital Saturday morning.

GALION NURSE WEDS CLEVELAND MAN IN HOME CEREMONY SUNDAY

GALION — Spring was in evidence in the setting and colors used for the home wedding Sunday afternoon of Helen Marguerite Cline, and William Paul Keyerleber, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Keyerleber of Cleveland.

The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of First Methodist church, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Cline, 216 South Columbus street.

Vows were exchanged by the couple before the fireplace in the living room. Palms and lighted tapers in two seven-branch candelabra, with a mantlepiece of daffodils provided the background. The candles were lighted by the bride's brother, Gordon Cline.

Preceding the service, Dorothy Plack played a fifteen-minute program of piano numbers, using many of the familiar nuptial selections and the traditional wedding march from Wagner's Lohengrin for the processional. The hymn, "Perfect Love," was played during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin. Her finger-tip length veil was caught to a satin tiara trimmed with plastic orange blossoms. She wore a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. White gardenias formed her bridal bouquet.

A long gown of daffodil yellow net was worn by her maid of honor, Miss Jean Milligan of Struthers, Ohio, roommate of the bride at Oberlin college. She carried a colonial bouquet of spring flowers.

Best man was August E. Keyerleber.

The thirty-five guests for the wedding and the buffet supper that followed were ushered to their places by the brothers of the bridal couple, Robert Cline and Fred Keyerleber.

Following the wedding supper served by Mrs. J. F. Bemiller of Galion, the couple left on a wedding trip, not disclosing their destination.

For traveling, the bride wore a light grey dress suit with black and white accessories. With this she had a coral topcoat.

The couple will make their home at 13910 Woodworth avenue, East Cleveland.

Having graduated from Galion high school in 1937, the former Miss Cline attended Oberlin college and graduated from the University of Cincinnati School of Nursing. A registered nurse, she has been associated with Emergency Clinic in Cleveland.

Mr. Keyerleber is cost accountant with Una Welding in Cleveland. He graduated from Collinwood high school in 1936 and attended Western Reserve university.

COUPLE UNITED AT CRESTLINE

Neola Frye Becomes Bride of Robert Libens In Quiet Ceremony.

CRESTLINE—A quiet wedding was solemnized Saturday at 11 a. m. when Miss Neola Frye, daughter of Mrs. Ola Frye of Buffalo, N. Y., became the bride of Robert Libens at the Methodist parsonage. Rev. Olin F. Hull officiated, using the single ring ceremony.

The couple was unattended. Attired in a powder blue crepe street length dress trimmed in white the bride wore brown and beige accessories and a shoulder corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Libens, South Thoman street.

A bowl of sweet peas, lighted tapers and a three-tier wedding cake bearing miniature bride and groom decorated the dining table.

The bride graduated from Buffalo high school and has been employed in the State Agricultural offices in New York. The groom graduated from Crestline high school and is employed at the B. & O. Railway shops at Willard.

The couple left Saturday afternoon for a week's wedding trip to New York and other eastern states. Upon their return they will make their home in Willard.

GET READY TO OPEN PARK AT SHELBY MAY 30

City Seeks Personnel To Maintain Swimming Pool at Seltzer Park.

SHELBY—With the exception of hiring of swimming pool personnel arrangements have been completed for the opening of Seltzer park Decoration day.

Although official opening of the park is not until the swimming pool opens on that day, many residents and visitors use the park grounds prior to that time. Help is expected to be harder to obtain at the park this year.

H. H. Knapp, park foreman, was recently rehired at an increase in monthly salary from $100 to $120. Common labor at the park was also granted an increase in wages from 45 cents to 50 cents an hour.

The board agreed to seek bids for operation of the soft drink and refreshment stand.

It voted not to permit after hour parties in the swimming pool as the custom has been in previous years. Special parties could get the pool to stay open later than the closing hour by paying for the extra period.

Galion Soldier, Akron Girl Wed In Quiet Ceremony

GALION—Corporal and Mrs. Jack Milford Chase took a short wedding trip following their marriage here Friday at the parsonage of First Reformed uh. echreR age of First Reformed church, Rev. R. R. Elliker, pastor, officiated for the ceremony in the presence of immediate families.

The bride is the former Frances J. Gardner of Akron. For her wedding she wore a light yellow suit with conga tan accessories and a corsage of lavender orchids.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. William A. Wagner of Galion.

The bride graduated from Bryan high school and attended Miami university, Oxford, where she affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. In 1942 she was selected as Sweetheart of Sigma Chi fraternity at the university.

Cpl. Chase is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chase of South Union street, Galion. He was graduated from Galion high school and Miami university where he was a member of Sigma Chi and Tribe Miami Varsity club.

DINNER OPENS CIVIC MUSIC DRIVE TONIGHT

180 Campaign Workers Hear Speakers Outline Methods To Get 1,000 Members.

Civic Music club membership workers — 180 of them — will further plans for their campaign to enroll 1,000 members before April 17 at a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. today in the Episcopal church.

Mrs. Mercedes Walker, representative of the national board of the Civic Music association, and Rev. Glenn F. Lewis, president of the Mansfield association, will explain campaign methods. Mrs. Jane Williams will also speak in this connection.

Mrs. Robert W. Jones is chairman in charge of the dinner arrangements.

Organization for the membership drive includes seven majors, each heading an organization of five captains, who in turn head at least five workers, working under the general direction of the campaign manager, Mrs. W. M. Layton. All workers are expected to be in attendance this evening.

The officers personnel of the Mansfield association, which also will attend the dinner meeting, includes Rev. Lewis, president; Carl H. Henkel, Mrs. Paul Cropper and Mrs. Layton, vice presidents; Mrs. Earl P. Gaar, corresponding-secretary; Mrs. Hester Robinson, recording secretary and Miss Myrtle Booth, treasurer.

Appearance of Paul Robeson, famous Negro baritone, here April 15 as the final artist to be presented this season by the organization, is expected to add impetus to the membership campaign, since the types of artists which can be scheduled is dependent on the funds made available by the memberships.

In war, as in peace, officers of the association feel that the importance of good music as a morale-builder cannot be overestimated.

IF YOU HADN'T STOPPED US FROM TRYING TO PREVENT HANS HURT FROM ESCAPING, WE COULD HAVE SPOILED EVERYTHING!
THERE WAS NO TIME TO EXPLAIN-
ONE STRAY SHOT, OR FIVE MINUTES DELAY, AND THAT STUFF WOULD HAVE BLOWN UP RIGHT UNDER HERE-
WELL, YOUR WATCH WAS USED IN A GOOD CAUSE, TO MAKE THAT BOMB--I'LL BET IT WENT SO HIGH IT WON'T BE DOWN AGAIN FOR TEN YEARS-
I CAN'T THINK OF A BETTER WAY TO LOSE A WATCH-

MARKET RISES ON MODERATELY HIGHER PRICES

Supply of Scrap Continues To Support Heavy Steel Production Effort.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Moderately higher prices ruled in today's early stock market proceedings.

Up fractions at a fairly lively opening were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Electric, Pennsylvania, Western Union, Boeing, Woolworth, North American and Standard Oil (NJ.)

Notice was taken of the magazine "Steel" survey which said the supply of srap continued to support the high rate of production in this industry, although in some area smeliers reported too large a proportion was of light and inferior material.

CHICAGO—(AP)—A firm undertone prevailed in grain pits at the opening today. All corn contracts were bid at ceilings following an announcement by the OPA that upward revision of 5 cents a bushel on yellow corn would become effective Wednesday, and changes in future ceilings would also be made that day.

Wheat started unchanged to ¼ higher, May $1.43⅛-$1.48⅞, and corn was unchanged, May $1.01.

RATIONED MEN?

Washington's Girls Want OPA Aid In Their Dilemma.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Washington's eight girls to every man club today wants the OPA to add something else to the next government ration book—men.

The club, formed by government girls who decided to do something about the "manpower shortage" in the nation's capital, held its first formal meeting and unanimously adopted a motion to have men rationed.

The girls plan to arrange group dates with soldiers from the various army posts located in the Washington area.

Three Yanks Were Thirsty So They Routed Italian Outpost

(By Associated Press)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN SOUTHERN TUNISIA, April 9 (Delayed)—Three American soldiers didn't see why they should go thirsty with an Italian water tank handy — so they raided an enemy outpost in a three-quarter-ton truck and brought the tank back under artillery fire.

"The whole bunch of them had run off just before we whipped up in our truck," said Sergt. John B. Jones, 32, of Lawrence, Ind., who says he has been "tanking" for 12 years with the armored forces.

"They had just finished cooking a meal and spaghetti was still on their plates. They had to scram before they had a chance to eat it."

"But it was that water tank we were after, not their chow. We up-ended it, slid it into the truck and drove off. We also got a lot of their kitchen utensils, pots, pans, and other things.

"On the way back they began dropping artillery shells all around us, but they missed us.

"We looked around for their wine, but they hadn't left any behind—nothing but water. But that tastes as good as wine after you have been climbing around these dusty hills a few days."

With Jones on the raid were Sergt. Dominic Lamoglia, Riverside, Calif., and Technician Phillip Nastasi of Butler, Pa.

WATER WORKS PARLEY OPENS

100 Representatives From Ohio Cities on Hand For State Meeting.

Nearly 100 city water works superintendents and officials from Ohio cities were in Mansfield today for the fifth annual convention of the Ohio section of the American Water Works association at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Officers and trustees arrived last night for preliminary sessions. The principal meeting was scheduled for this afternoon with Harry Jordan, New York City, secretary of the American Water Works association, and H. Lloyd Nelson, Washington, D. C., representing the WPB office of war utilities, as the main speakers.

O. C. Kathfleisch, superintendent of the Mansfield water department, and chairman of the committee on arrangements, was scheduled to address the group on improvements to Mansfield's water works.

Mayor W. J. Locke was expected to welcome the delegates at a luncheon meeting in the hotel ballroom.

General theme of the convention is "Water Works Management." J. P. Adkins, manager of public utilities at Shelby, was on the morning program, discussing "Plant Expansion Problems At Shelby." The sessions were to close late this afternoon.

PRE-SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS TO START APRIL 19 AT BUTLER

Examination of Richland county boys and girls of pre-school age will begin April 19 at the Butler school, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said today.

Children who will start to school next fall will be checked for physical defects and possible contagious diseases at schools throughout the city and county during the next month. Dr. Wild and Dr. Mabel Emery will conduct the examinations.

Parents in the Butler area have been asked to have their children at the school at 9 a. m. next Monday. Examinations will be conducted at 2 p. m. the same day in the Sharon township schools at Shelby Settlement. The Morton, Gamble, Will and Settlement schools will be included.

Also scheduled for next week are the Shiloh school district children at Shiloh at 9 a. m. April 20 and the Plymouth school district at Plymouth school at 2 p. m. that day.

The examiners will go to Adario April 21 for a morning session and in the afternoon children in the Weller-Franklin district will be checked at the Union rural high school.

Boys and girls who will enter the Springfield township schools in the fall will be checked at 9 a. m. April 22 at the Ontario school and Lucas boys and girls will be examined in the afternoon of that day at Lucas, Dr. Wild said.

Mansfield's 400 boys and girls who are about to enter school will be examined early in May. Other county schools will be visited later in April.

Jews, still wearing the Star of David on their coat lapels as required by the German force, made a great show of tearing off the stars and stomping them on the ground in front of Allied soldiers.

All inhabitants told of the wreckage perpetrated by the Germans before they left Saturday night. Wells and the water-works were destroyed. The electric plant was blown up, and even the local bakery was dismantled.

Russians Gain In Surprise Attack

MOSCOW — (UP) — Russian troops, breaking a lull in the fighting north of Kharkov, seized a string of enemy trenches in a surprise night attack in the Belgorod area and killed 100 Germans, the Soviet announced today.

Two anti-tank guns, several machine-guns and several dozen rifles were captured, the mid-day communique said.

Below Kharkov, the Red army repulsed renewed enemy attempts to breach the Soviet lines south of Balakleya. Soviet artillery destroyed 11 enemy trucks and three pillboxes, the communique said.

Claim Sinking of British Cruiser

LONDON — (AP) — The Berlin radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, reported today that a German submarine had sunk a British cruiser of the "Fiji class" northeast of Alboran island in the eastern Mediterranean Saturday.

An escorting destroyer of the "Tribal class" was reported torpedoed and damaged.

(The German claims were not confirmed by Allied sources.)

Palermo Hit Again By Allied Bombers

CAIRO — (AP) — Allied heavy bombers made another attack on the important Axis base at Palermo, Sicily, Saturday night, dropping bombs near the warehouses and customs depot on the south side of the harbor and setting fire to the main railway station, an RAF communique said today.

All the Allied planes returned safely, it was announced.

Swiss Ready To Fight Any Aggressor

BERN — (UP) — The Swiss people were pledged today to take up arms to defend their neutrality and independence against any belligerent, either Axis or Allied.

Marce Pilet-Golaz, councilor of foreign affairs, said at a political congress yesterday that Switzerland would face a serious crisis with invasion of the continent, with "formidable political, economic, financial and perhaps even military situations."

Although he did not consider Switzerland in immediate danger, Golaz said "we have given our word and will keep it towards and against all."

British Mine Axis Coastal Waters

LONDON — (INS) — Planes of the British bomber command last night mined Axis-controlled waters, the air ministry announced today.

Two of the craft were lost in the operation.

Earlier it had been announced that Mosquito bombers blasted the Nazi-operated railway workshops at Malines, Belgium, and a factory at Hengelo, Holland, at dusk yesterday.

There were no reports of night activity over the continent by the Royal Air Force which had struck at Germany in three successive attacks on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

BOMBING TELLS

LONDON — (AP) — The magazine Steel today quoted its London editor as saying Germany has lost up to 20 per cent of its production volume in metal industries through labor slowdowns and Allied bombings of plants.

ZIMMERMAN, VETERAN MANSFIELD FLIER, NOW LIEUTENANT COLONEL

A veteran Mansfield flier, James L. Zimmerman, commanding officer of the Army Air Base at Blythe, Cal., has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel. Announcement by the public relations office at the base said the promotion was made on March 27.

A flying officer, Col Zimmerman served overseas as a pursuit pilot during World War I. Following the war he entered into the barnstorming era of aviation which followed. He later was associated with Westinghouse where he served as plant engineer.

Having retained his commission as a member of the Air Corps reserve, Col. Zimmerman was called to active duty in February 1941. He served 14 months with a traveling board of Aviation Cadet Procurement service and was then appointed president of the cadet board, Bowman field, Ky. From there he was assigned to the Army Air base, Pueblo, Colo., as commanding officer and then to the Army Air base, Yakima, Wash., in the same capacity. From Yakima, he assumed his present command.

LIEUT. COL. J. L. ZIMMERMAN

Mrs. Zimmerman resides with her husband at Blythe, Cal. Their son, William, who formerly attended Mansfield high school and Purdue university, is now in training as an aviation cadet at San Antonio, Texas.

General MacArthur's bombers, meanwhile, struck back with a series of raids on Japanese bases ranging from Timor in the west to New Ireland in the east, where a Flying Fortress was reported to have fought a brilliant duel with 10 enemy fighters over Kavieng, coming through in safety after shooting down three and damaging three others.

Hitting at Japanese bases in Dutch New Guinea, Hudsons and Catalinas carried out night raids which set fire to Japanese installations and supplies at Tikika and Baba, the communique said. They also damaged an 8,000-ton merchant ship at Kaikana.

Mitchell medium bombers were reported to have caused heavy destruction among buildings at Baucau, in Timor, while a Liberator left the entire dock area of Madang in northwestern New Guinea a mass of ruins.

Of the Japanese planes shot out of action over Ora bay 17 were fighters and six dive-bombers, the Allied communique said.

RAF Bombers Hit Jap-Held Village

NEW DELPHI — (AP) — RAF bombers raided a Japanese-occupied village on the Mayu peninsula of Burma and dropped bombs on the important Myitkyina railway line about 45 miles southwest of Katha yesterday, a British communique said today.

Japanese aircraft bombed two places along the north Arakan coast of Burma, but no casualties or damage resulted, the communique said.

Revised Count Shows 39 Japs Downed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A third report on the April 7 aerial battle off Guadalcanal now shows it cost the Japanese 39 planes.

Revised reports of the battle, issued yesterday by the navy, also showed Allied losses included a destroyer, a tanker and a corvette sunk, a small fuel boat damaged, and seven planes lost.

Of the latter, the navy said five of the U. S. pilots were rescued. The fuel boat earlier had been reported sunk.

Japanese Claim Victory In Burma

(By Associated Press)

A communique from Japanese imperial headquarters, broadcast by the Tokyo radio and recorded by the Associated Press today, said Japanese forces in Burma, which have been operating near the frontiers of India and China's Yunnan province, achieved their objectives at the end of March after killing 900 British-Indian and Chinese soldiers and taking 200 prisoners.

Japanese losses in the two campaigns, the communique said, were 85 dead. It was reported only mopping up operations were in progress at present.

Born April 1, 1941, he is survived by the parents; four brothers, Vernon jr., Paul, Carl and Roy; and four sisters, Mrs. Paul Gorman, Betty, Laura and Dortha, all of this vicinity.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

FATHERS GIVEN DEFERMENT BY NEW DRAFT RULE

Regulation Affects All Men Who Became Dads Before Last September 15.

of all men outside of farming except those personally essential to essential activities and those whose induction would mean "extreme hardship and privation" to dependents.

Reserved exclusively for fathers the 3-A classification, which has been open to childless married men and hardship-case single men engaged in activities outside both the essential and non-deferable lists.

Created a new classification, 3-D, for deferment of anyone whose induction would "result in extreme hardship and privation to a wife, child or parent with whom he maintains a bona fide family relationship in their home."

Selective service spokesmen said farmers who have been in Class 3-A, including childless married men, would be shifted automatically to 3-C for continuance of their deferment. The 2-C classification defers farmers without dependents.

Men who are personally essential to essential activities will continue to be placed in classifications 2-A and 2-B for deferment for six-month periods or until replacements are available for them. These need not have dependents.

The farm dependents are superior to others because they continue indefinitely, without regard to availability of replacements.

Both farm classifications are restricted to those "necessary to and regularly engaged in an agricultural occupation or agricultural endeavor essential to the war effort," but liberal interpretation has opened them to most full-time farm workers.

Elimination of the 3-B classification put men in essential activities on the same footing as those in other work—except work specifically declared to hold no deferment rating whatsoever, even for men with several children—unless they are essential individuals.

This appeared to reverse the policy of the war manpower commission, which has charge of selective service, to persuade shifts to the more essential lines of work, but spokesmen said the same—and quicker—result could be obtained by expanding the non-deferrable list.

Furthermore, they said, the postponement afforded by 3-B rating might have been slight since many local boards have exhausted their supply of childless married men in 3-A and have begun reclassifying such men out of 3-B into 1-A. They added the same condition would have prevailed when the calling of fathers began.

Boards were instructed to:

Consider whether men reclassified out of 3-B should be put in 3-C, 3-A, 2-C, 2-A or 2-B before putting them in 1-A.

"Bear in mind" that they can put a man in 2-A or 2-B even if neither his line of work nor his particular job is on the national list of essential activities and job-occupations, since the list is "only a guide" to help determine essentiality.

Continue, "insofar as possible," to call single men ahead of married men, regardless of when the marriages took place. Calling of fathers is expected to begin generally around July 1.

The current rate of inductions is about 12,000 a day. There now are about 15,000,000 registrants aged 18 through 37 in the various draft classifications. Another 80,000 to 100,000 become 18 each month.

Approximately 9,250,000 of the present registrants are men in the family relationship classification—3-A, 3-B and 3-C—and about 6,250,000 of them are fathers.

The 3-A class contains about 7,000,000 men, the 3-B class 2,000,000 and the 3-C class 250,000. Many in 3-A and 3-B will, however, be shifted to 3-C as reclassifications go forward.

In 4-H are "men 38 to 45 now deferred because their age group is not being accepted for military service."

Although these men are presently deferred, selective service said "this group is being reclassified in case of eventual call." It was indicated that the reclassification would consist of placing the men in the regular classes with an "H" added to the designation to show they are not wanted now for service. Thus, one necessary to the war production program would be tabbed 2-BH, a farmer 2-CH, etc.

Here Are Revised Draft Classifications

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The revised draft classifications announced today by selective service are:

1-A, available for military service.

1-A-O, conscientious objector available for noncombatant military service.

1-C, member of land or naval forces of the United States.

2-A, man necessary in his essential civilian activity.

2-B, man necessary to the war production program.

2-C, man deferred by reason of his agricultural occupation or endeavor.

3-A, man with child or children deferred by reason of maintaining bona fide family relationship.

3-C, man with dependents who is regularly engaged in agricultural occupation or endeavor.

3-D, man deferred because induction would cause extreme hardship and privation to a wife, child, or parent with whom he maintains a bona fide family relationship.

4-A, man 45 years old, or over, who is deferred by reason of age.

4-B, official deferred by law.

4-C, neutral aliens requesting relief from liability for training and service, and allies not acceptable to the armed forces.

4-D, minister of religion or divinity student.

4-E, conscientious objector available for work of national importance.

4-F, physically, mentally, or morally unfit.

4-H, men deferred because their age group, 38 through 45, is not being accepted for military service. They now are being classified according to their status in the above categories in case of eventual call. A man falling into the 1-A class, for example, is classified 1-A-H.

SIX KILLED IN ALABAMA STORM

Two Southern Villages Hit By Morning Tornado.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP)—Six persons were killed and many others injured today when storms struck the north Alabama towns of Hackleburg and Vinemont.

The business section of Hackleburg, 90 miles northwest of Birmingham, was destroyed, and four persons were killed there, Stone J. Crane, Red Cross field representative, said.

Two others were reported killed and at least a dozen injured at Vinemont, 70 miles north of Birmingham, and about the same distance east of Hackleburg.

A great yard of lumber had been at a saw mill up in the hills about 20 miles. Preliminary surveys of this western field included a note of that important fact. Then the land purchase had been rushed through—even at the exorbitant figure which profited Harry Boyle—so that the airport could be erected in needed haste. But now—the lumber had been purchased surreptitiously, too, and hauled away. It was scattered in several destinations out of state.

"I might be able to find it and commandeer it," Bill groused at Rosemary one night in their office. "As government agents we could make them haul it back."

"Why don't we, then?"

He shrugged. "Priority maneuvers would only create ill will, I'm afraid. People are patriotic enough when they understand. Right now, a lot of them don't."

"I found that out, surely," she agreed.

"They're among the finest folks in America, these rural westerners. But they are independent, too. Like to feel that nobody is dictating to them or trying to run their affairs. And hang it all, I can't blame them. It's a grand spirit. It's the spirit we're depending on for victory in the long run. Don't you see?"

"Yes, Mr. St. Clair."

"Bill," he corrected. "We government folks can't be high-pressure. Not without understanding and tact. And anyway—I've telephoned back to Dad in Washington. He's as distressed as we are. He looked into it and called me back, in Option today. If we tried to get that lumber deal retracted, tried to correct that slick sale by your boy friend Boyle, then we—"

"Please don't call him that! He—he's only my husband!"

* * *

The incongruity of that escaped both of them. Bill nodded. "Okay, your husband. If we tried to correct what he has done, the red tape involved there would take a month at least, dad says. You know how it is; democracy moves wonderously, but sometimes ponderously. What we must have, is some rapid way to cut through!"

Rosemary stared off, thinking. "We need building materials—now!"

"Exactly! And, confound it all, if I didn't know the facts, I'd almost think there was connivance against us."

"There is, Bill! If you don't think Harry Boyle is capable of—"

"I don't mean him. I'm gunning for him in due time. But I mean, in many delays we face all along in trying to correct what he did. It wouldn't help if I just set in to prosecute Boyle now. Don't you see? That itself would Take weeks, maybe months. Our most priceless commodity is time! We have to be ready for the first trainees and the air staff inside of 30 days."

She saw that he was desperate. She knew, too, that he had scarcely slept since coming here to Lightning and Option. He had bought a car and driven everywhere. Trying to work deals in the county seat. Trying to get political help at the state capital. Everybody was ready, anxious, but incapable; at least incapable of helping him in the emergency rush he faced. Too much other war work had already made too many inroads on the existing man power and material stores, and Bill couldn't claim precedence over them. His project had to be an extra job!

He went out of the Lightning City hotel, where they had set up offices. And she could tell by the way he walked and acted that deep dejection sat upon him.

"You reckon he needs some help?" Uncle Peter Quincy, worried, asked of Rosemary now.

"He certainly does, Uncle Pete. And—there's only one person in the world who can help him. That's me. I—you must help me slip away. I'm going to make a deal with a man named Boyle!"

His Men Can't Quit Jobs But Labor's Still His Big Worry

(By Associated Press)

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — His 3,000 workers couldn't quit if they wanted to, and their wages and housing are never a problem—

Yet Production Boss P. F. Willis says his biggest headache in filling war contracts is labor.

Willis, is commissioner of Missouri Prison Industries, turning out such orders as 40,000 chambray shirts, 50,000 British boiler suits (a sort of blue denim coverall) and 69,000 khaki coveralls for the army.

Contracts are being completed satisfactorily and ahead of schedule "but that doesn't mean I don't have headaches," the stocky, pipe-smoking factory boss groans.

The fact the state requires more than 3,000 men to do hard labor in his shops hasn't solved the manpower problem.

"In the last three years about 85 per cent of the men we got here were short-termers," he explains. "With time off for good behavior and everything, a man can serve a two-year sentence in 13 months.

"Well, it takes two or three months to train them—and by then they're beginning to think about getting out and they're not much disposed to work."

The trained civilian foremen are quitting, too, he added, to take better jobs elsewhere.

And now, he sighs, legislators are talking of freeing able-bodied prisoners with good records to serve in the armed forces. They're his most efficient factory hands.

FISH PROPOSES 'HONEST' NAMES

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep Fish (R., N. Y.) has proposed an amendment or what he termed "honest labelling" during house consideration of a resolution to investigate the government's grade labeling program. Fish's suggestion:

"The the Republican party shall be henceforth known as 'the liberal-conservative-American-constitutional party and that the New Deal party shall henceforth be known as "the bureaucratic-totalitarian-radical-socialist party."

Members smiled and passed the proposal by.

SELECTEE SEES LIFE IN ARMY VIA EGG YOLK

He Wonders What It's All About; Classification of Skills Holds Answer.

By EWARD R. ELLIS
(UP Staff Correspondent)

CAMP GRANT, Ill.—Pvt. Carl Etzel fondled four eggs. Glumly he sat in a dim room 4,000 miles away from a battleline and nursed four eggs in hands hewn for violence.

This is the army, this is Camp Grant, but Private Etzel finds it hard to believe. They give you guns in the army. They give you hand grenades and bayonet drills and gas mask practice and fighting lingo. Private Etzel looked at his eggs.

He squatted in the candling department of the army air force's meat and dairy school at Camp Grant in the middle f the wind-scoured prairie. Etzel is a brawny man of 38 from Pittsburgh, Pa., and his hands are slabs of muscle. But he must learn how to candle eggs, for candling select good eggs and good eggs build good men.

With meaty fingers he rotated two eggs in each hand as the sergeant instructed. Dexterity is essential to speedy candling. The soldiers in this specialist school receive one full hour of practice just getting the "feel" of eggs.

Keep the points toward the body, the blunt ends toward the candle—which really isn't a candle at all, but an electric light. Roll them toward the thumb, prestidigitate the lower eggs to the top, manipulate them into their original positions. Then try to remember which was which to begin with and which were good and which bad.

Etzel scowled and bent lower over his O. D. jacket, spread apron-like across husky knees.

The army needs not only men who can wield a bayonet and make a machine gun talk but men who can do thousands of unusual jobs. Its official dictionary of occupational titles used in classifying selectees by their skills lists 29,000 separate jobs. Included are such specialties and tuftstayer, jockey room custodian, drip box tender, beat-out boy and parlormaud.. Parlormaid is the word. Male parlormaid.

Maj. Allan O. Brophy, executive officer, informed visiting newspapermen that perhaps the hardest skills to classify and assign in the army are those of newspapermen and bartender.

Part of the induction process at the reception center is the classification session. The selectee is directed to a cubicle, one of many bordering a large room, and there is seated beside a classifier. This classifier may be a ph. d. with a G. I. haircut or a former personnel manager with a smile, but whatever he is he is efficient.

The selectee soon is shorn of modesty and his past. Not even his middle name is inviolate. Information comes tumbling out. So the selectee was a filing clerk. Yes. And he is great shakes with a javelin. Yess. He was treasurer of his senior high school class. Yess. Before the classifier is through, his past is as transparent as a candled egg.

A classifier looked into Private Etzel, found he had been a meat cutter. Meat cutter. Food processing. Egg candling. Presto! There was Etzel seeing the world through the yolk of an egg.

Visit it with bombs—made from your used cooking grease! That grease is urgently needed to make gunpowder! Even with rationing, you can save at least a tablespoonful a day. Rush each canful to your meat dealer.

THE 2nd WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

America....you've got to get tougher!

WAR FINANCE COMMITTEE

AMERICA — Let's be frank about it . . . so far, many of us back home have been fighting this war from an easy chair. Many of us have bought War Bonds out of extra cash, out of money we didn't miss too much. We haven't been really tough with ourselves.

But this war is a hard, down-to-reality war. And many of our boys are dying in it.

We've got to buy MORE

So your government asks you to buy Bonds and more Bonds—to get really tough with yourself. We're asking you to give up the frills and "extras."

We know how human it is not to make sacrifices until the crisis drives us to it. In England they felt the same way until the bombs started falling.

Bombs are such persuasive things. But just as persuasive ought to be the spirit of our brothers, sons, husbands.

If you could see

Look at it this way—suppose you had a magic carpet that could take you to Africa and New Guinea. Suppose you could hear the groan of American boys wounded, and American boys dying. . . . Say now, how many Bonds would you buy?

That kind of war

THEY . . . are dying. And they will keep on dying until we drown the enemy in an overwhelming torrent of bombs, bullets, guns, tanks, planes, ships, and shells.

That's why we're asking you, in this one month of April alone, to lend Uncle Sam 13 billions of dollars—by buying War Bonds. 13 billions of extra dollars—over and above any buying that you'd be doing anyway!

A lot of money

Of course, 13 billion dollars is a lot of money. It'll take sweat and tears to raise it. It'll mean going without now. But also—it will mean savings now—to buy later. It'll mean giving up everything you can't square with your conscience, so that we, us, our children, can have a better, more decent place to live in when this war is won.

The drive is on

So during this month of April, if someone calls on you to ask you to buy War Bonds in this 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE, will you buy to the limit—and then buy more?

Better yet, will you go to your Bank, Postoffice, or wherever you're used to buying your Bonds—and buy NOW? Will you lend extra money this month? Money that can hasten the day of Victory? Money that can help to save American lives.

Money buys money

Remember, what you're really buying with your money is still more money. For after all, these Bonds are money! Money plus! Every dollar you put into War Bonds will bring you a dollar plus interest.

So the more Bonds you buy the better for you. Americans—Get Tough—with yourselves—for your country.

There are 7 different types of U. S. Government Securities —Choose the ones best suited for you:

United States War Savings Bonds—Series E: The perfect investment for individual and family savings. Gives you back $4 for every $3 when the Bond matures. Designed especially for the smaller investor. Dated 1st day of month in which payment is received. Interest: 2.9% a year if held to maturity. Denominations: $25, $50, $100, $500, $1000. Redemption: any time 60 days after issue date. Price: 75% of maturity value.

2½% Treasury Bonds of 1964-1969: Readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral, these Bonds are ideal investments for trust funds, estates and individuals. A special feature provides that they may be redeemed at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying Federal estate taxes. Dated April 15, 1943; due June 15, 1969. Denominations: $500, $1000, $5000, $10,000, $100,000—also $1,000,000 if registered. Redemption: Not callable till June 15, 1964; thereafter at par and accrued interest on any interest date at 4 months' notice. Subject to Federal taxes only. Price: par and accrued interest.

Other Securities: Series "C" Tax Notes; 7/8% Certificates of Indebtedness; 2% Treasury Bonds of 1950-1952; United States Savings Bonds Series "F"; United States Savings Bonds Series "G."

Kilowatt Says: Invest Your Share Today

How to invest your share:

Some time soon, you may be called on by a War Loan Drive volunteer. But don't wait for him. Decide now to dig down—dig down deep. Then take every penny you can and go to your nearest bank or post office and turn the money into War Bonds.

Sure, it may hurt. But a lot of clean-cut young fellows in uniform are going to be hurt a lot worse than you are before this war is won. And don't ever forget this!

You're not giving your dollars—you're lending them. Your money's going to come back to you—and bring more money with it. Money that can mean plenty of peacetime jobs and peacetime goods for you and yours.

So don't wait. For your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

Remember Bataan—buy War Bonds.

Latest complaint to gasoline rationing board: "Long time no C."

This would be the time to say a good word for dandelion greens—except for the fact that the supply never seems to equal the demand.

State Department Orders Secrecy

DECISION by the state department that representatives of newspapers are to be barred from sessions of the United Nations food conference, to be held next month in Hot Springs, Va., will require better explanation than is found in President Roosevelt's recently expressed hope that negotiations at this conference might be carried through "without interruption by reporters."

What this means, in effect, is that the American people are being excluded from these conference sessions, as the sole purpose of newspaper representation would be to keep the public informed about what is being done by the conferees.

It is interesting, possibly illuminating, to note that this action is by the state department, not by the Office of Censorship or the Office of War Information, either of which might have exercised such authority had it been deemed advantageous to the war effort.

Announcement is to the effect that newspapermen will be excluded from all except the formal opening and closing sessions of the conference, which means that secrecy will surround the discussion of matters of vital importance to the people of this country, and to their future well-being.

The case for the public, which is to be kept in the dark about proceedings of the coming conference, is well stated by Senator Dennis Chavez, (D), of New Mexico, who said: "I don't approve of excluding the press from anything. The press could be put on a voluntary basis to use self-restraint in transmitting news which might have significance to the enemy. Up to now the American press has demonstrated an admirable capacity for self-restraint. If it had so desired, it could have abused the public's confidence, but I know of no single occasion where it has done so."

Censorship and secret negotiations beyond the bounds of military requirements smack too strongly of dictatorship to be lightly accepted in the United States of America.

Legislators Do Queer Things

THERE'S a strange, rather offensive, odor about the procedure whereby Republicans in the state legislature killed Governor Bricker's proposal to cut off the retail sales tax on food served in restaurants and hotels, and also on prescription medicines.

Odd as it may have been that the governor should suggest even a relatively picayunish tax reduction after he had submitted the biggest budget in the state's history, it seems even odder that his recommendation was so lightly regarded by legislators of his own party that they refused to let the matter come up for discussion in the assembly.

It is estimated that removal of the tax from prescription medicines and restaurant-served foods would save around $8,000,000 a year for payers of this tax—and it is admitted that continuance of the tax is designed to add to the already unnecessarily large surplus in the state treasury instead of to meet any actual need.

Odd, also, is Governor Bricker's calm acceptance of this legislative rebuff. He says, in effect: "Well, I asked them to reduce taxes but they wouldn't do it—and after all, it's up to the legislature. I still believe that this tax on food and medicine should be removed."

Weeks wasted in the futile controversy over changing Ohio's time standard and the general lag in matters of real importance, evidence lack of constructive leadership in the legislature. A tax-reduction gesture by the governor, and refusal of the legislature to act thereon, indicates political jockeying—for which the people must pay.

Another Glimpse of Sacred Relic

THE ORIGINAL COPY of the Declaration of Independence is brought out from its hiding place and put on public display again at Washington, in connection with dedication of the Jefferson Memorial. Archibald MacLeish, librarian of congress, explains: "My feeling about it is that if there is any document in the United States which should be exhibited to the people of this country at this moment, it is that document, and we are justified in bringing it back and making it visible for a few days." It is heavily protected and strongly-guarded, as befits the "palladium of American liberty" in a perilous time.

It is a pity that Anthony Eden, recently in Washington as a representative of the British government couldn't have seen that faded old Declaration. There are no more hard feelings about the American revolution. He might have looked upon it not as a historic blow at England, but somewhat as Englishmen and Americans both can look at Britain's ancient copy of Magna Charta—their common heritage, wrested from King John long ago.

War in a common cause, for the second time now, has wiped out ancient feuds. Britain and America feel that they are united in spirit as in arms, in defense of the same liberties and a similar way of life.

How a Trainee Spends His Time

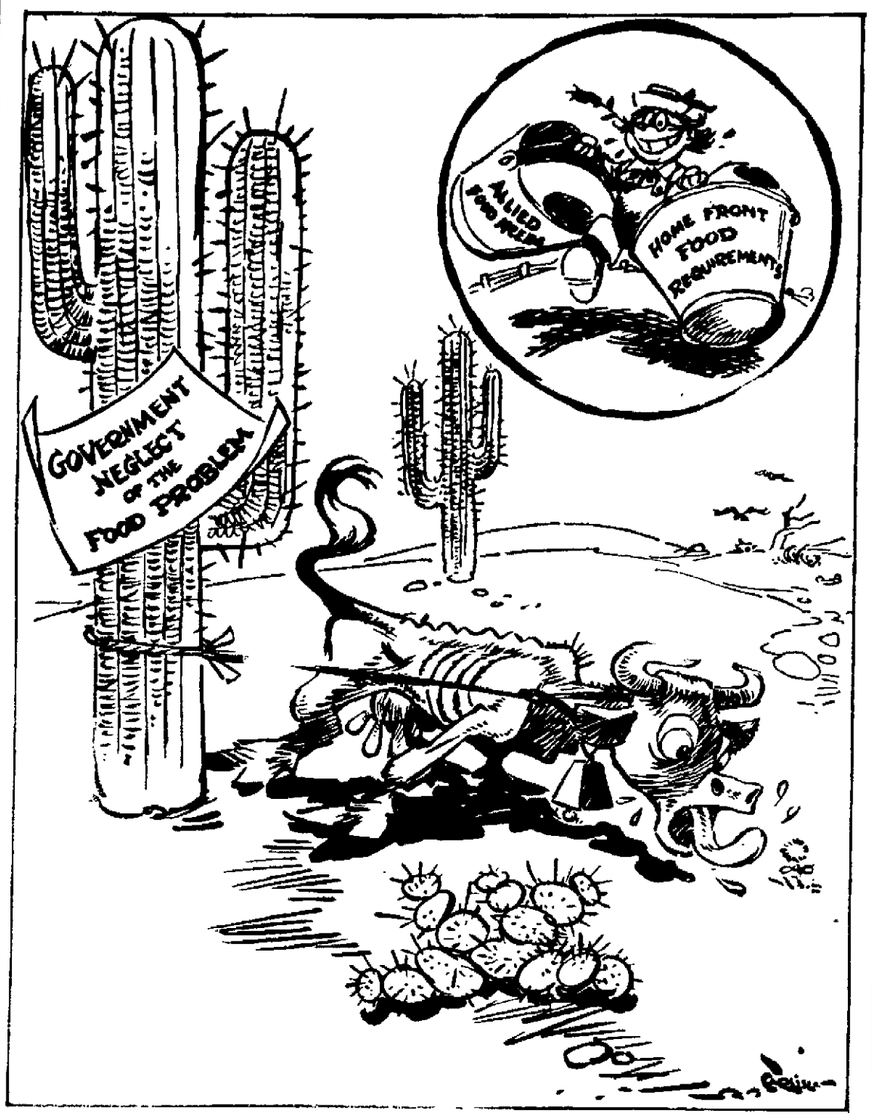
A PRIVATE who went recently from an institute of music, and joined the paratroopers, tells with zest about the way he's training.

"We're usually out of the barracks by 5:30 a. m.," he says, "and have half an hour for lunch, and get back at night. We do everything—calisthenics, running, rope climbing, obstacle races, more running, push-ups and more push-ups.

"I didn't know it was possible to get so full of bruises and scrapes. My legs look as if they were rubbed with coarse sandpaper. Some of my fingers are swollen and discolored. I'm not oragging any about my knees. I've gone to bed lately with a headache from the constant pounding my body has given the ground—or is it the other way? But I've had as much jiu-jitsu as a Jap general. And tomorrow, just for a little fun, we climax our first physical training with a nine-mile run."

He hasn't seen much yet, either. Wait till he starts jumping out of planes and falling all over the landscape. But like the rest of the boys, he can take it. Parents naturally get a little worried, though, about them and also about their younger brothers who will soon be starting their own volunteer training for the summer.

THE NOT VERY GREEN PASTURES



MacArthur's Job Is Nonpolitical, Misjudgment Might Be Disastrous

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

THE PACIFIC WAR remains in a state of relative calm—a condition likely to persist to greater or less degree until the Allies are prepared for an all-out offensive.

The Japs are busy consolidating the gains of their banditry—a task so vast it's taxing the strength of the mikado's little men. Any attacks which they make are for purposes of defense and not because they want more territory.

The Allied forces are checkmating brilliantly here, and hitting aggressively there, to keep the enemy from digging in and to weaken his striking power. Broadly speaking, however, the United Nations are doing a holding job until equipment is available for the big smash.

When will the day of reckoning come? Well, the signs are too dim to read. It may well be that it will have to wait until Herr Hitler has been rendered impotent. That would seem to be a question which even the Allied high command can't answer yet.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, in a statement on the first anniversary of Bataan's fall, grieved over the fate of the Philippines under the Jap heel and said "From the bottom of a seared and stricken heart I pray that a merciful God may not delay too long their redemption." So even the supreme commander of the Allied nations in Western Pacific can't see the end.

STILL, it isn't the great, all-out offensive against the Japs which we have to worry about. When Hitler has been mastered, and the terrific Allied strength is released from the European theater, the United Nations fighting-machine will roll all right.

Our danger lies in the present moment - this delicate period of holding the enemy in check and preparing the way for the kill.

Now is the time when Allied misjudgment might be disastrous not after we have our full strength massed in the Pacific. We shall be invincible on that day, but we aren't now.

During this time of watchful preparation it's imperative the cause of the United Nations be in skilled hands - the most competent available. He must be a man of extreme patience—for the waiting is trying. He must be able to get the most out of his inadequate equipment. He must have foresight in strategy and tactics. He must have leadership in handling both troops and civilians. And above all he mustn't make any big mistake.

In short the commander in chief in the western Pacific at this crucial juncture must have qualifications ranking him among the outstanding generals of history.

GENERAL M'ARTHUR was selected as the man best fitted for this exacting leadership. Since his appointment he has been praised by our Allies. Australia gatefully credits him with having stood off the Japanese invasion. He has held his bridge-head as few generals could have done.

So it seems more than passing strange that anyone should try to get the general involved in politics, even as a candidate for the presidency. He is our sheet-anchor in the Pacific storm.

Moreover, as might be expected from a great soldier, he has emphasized that he wants nothing to do with politics, but desires only to get ahead with his job.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

MORE than 26,000 brave souls got to the Jamaica race track for the opening, despite the rigors of travel, and it is a fine big tribute to the stamina of the American public.

* * *

Most of the 26,000 were men who cheerfully sacrificed an afternoon at the forge or the stethescope to give their loyal support to the bangtails.

* * *

For many of them it represented not only a physical but a financial sacrifice.

* * *

Not only did they have to walk two miles after parking their automobiles - for none was allowed to park within one mile of the track - but they put two dollars on the nose of the favorites and it traveled to the other end.

* * *

Some of the hardships they underwent were unbelievable. The hot dogs ran out early as did the soda pop. So did the programs. Twenty-six of the mutuel machine clerks struck and bettors had to travel as much as six feet to the next window and stand in long lines to feed their money to Moloch.

But there wasn't a quitter in the lot. Braver men you couldn't find anywhere.

THE question "when is a loophole not a loophole?" will rise in connection with the president's apparently firm "hold-the-line" edict freezing wages and jobs. Loophole students are beginning to see big openings, and it all depends on whether the president is playing football or softball.

Timely Editorial

Rubber Scarcity Continues.

In the flurry of optimistic statements issued lately concerning the synthetic rubber program, it would be easy for the average citizen to get the impression that there is no longer any need for him to be careful about the use of his tires.

The recent liberalization in the rules for obtaining recaps and new war tires might also strengthen that belief.

Such an impression is totally incorrect, as was emphasized by Rubber Director William M. Jeffers in a recent letter to OPA Administrator Pretiss M. Brown.

The rubber situation may be viewed with "encouragement," said Jeffers, but 1943 is still the year of rubber crisis. Prospects are that no automobile will have to be taken off the road for want of rubber. But that can only come to pass if non-essential driving is held to the very minimum and if reduced speeds continue to prevail, in order to prolong the life of existing tires.

Amateur Sleuths Shadow Nelson, Army Keeps Tab on WPB Director

WASHINGTON—The Supply Services of the army (Gen. Somervell and Under Secretary Patterson) have been dove-tailing their work much more harmoniously with the War Production Board. The old feuding between them has subsided, at least for the time being.

However, Donald Nelson was shocked and surprised to find another branch of the army literally "on his tail." He noticed that wherever he went, one, and usually two, men followed him. He was being "tailed."

Even more amazing, he discovered that the shadowing was being done by a branch of the army, military intelligence. In other words, the army had its young officer detectives following the day-to-day and hour-by-hour movements of one of the most important men in the government—the man who supplies the army with its war materials.

No explanation has been forthcoming from the army, and Nelson has asked for none. He has become so used to the army putting burrs in his bed that one more makes no difference.

However, there are two possible explanations. Nelson is in the process of getting a divorce, and his friends say that the army wants to watch his social activities.

The other is that both military and naval intelligence are overstaffed with bright young ex-brokers, real estate agents, and blue bloods from the best families who simply love to play at the game of detective. Nelson's friends suggest that they are peeking around corners at him just to practice up for spying on Hitler. He replies:

"I don't mind their peep-holing, but I thought we were fighting this war to get away from Gestapos."

Note: When Washington officials see anyone peeking in their windows, they know its either military or naval intelligence. J. Edgar Hoover's FBI is too smart to pull any amateur detective tricks.

Italian Royal Family.

NOW that plans are being made to put Mayor Fiorello La Guardia in as eventual governor general of Italy, a lot of Italian-Americans are worried over the tendency of some British-American diplomats to lean on King Emmanuel and the Royal House of Savoy.

Said gracious Lord Halifax the other day to Count Sforza, former foreign minister of Italy, now exiled here:

"I think we can save the House of Savoy through the Pope."

"The House of Savoy isn't worth saving," replied Sforza. "It's weakness would drag down the House of Windsor."

This seemed to register with the British ambassador.

Dies Cooperates.

NOW that turbulent, charming Martin Dies and the justice department are pulling together, they may really go places in uprooting the seeds of foreign propaganda, dormant since Pearl Harbor, but ready to sprout the minute the war is over.

The six-foot-two Texan is now good friends with six-foot-two John Rogge, special justice department prosecutor of the 33 alleged seditionists. Both figure that their main objective is helping the country rather than calling each other names.

Dies has had some "zealots" and or "sabotagers of reputations" around him who have been anything but fair to some of their victims. Nevertheless, Dies performed an important service in helping wake the country up long before Pearl Harbor when it badly needed waking up, and he has a mass of information which, if used wisely, can root out the Nazi subversive network which now has fled underground.

Dies has in his files the names of 100,000 Bundists, plus 300,000 members of the German-American alliance, plus 25,000 members of the KYFFHAEUSER-BUND, an organization so secret that its members had to take an oath to do confidential work.

Most of these were naturalized Americans, are still in this country, and are ready to pop up as soon as the war is over to cry isolation and weep over persecuting Germany. Dies points out that now is the time to act, regarding these potential saboteurs of patriotism, rather than wait until after the war.

"Thousands of vigilantes and members of the Klan," Dies has told the justice department, "are already working sub rosa on the makings of a strong fascist organization. The Nazis know how to use them. And unless we do something now about the men who were ready to sell their country short, they'll be selling us short again after the war."

Russian Actors Act.

LEONID ANTONOV, of the Soviet Cinime society, tells how when the Red army was fighting from street to street in Stalingrad, a group of motion pictures actors left their studios and asked to be given arms. The general in charge of the area bluntly refused, sent them back with this answer:

"We have soldiers, but we haven't many actors. Your job is to make motion pictures. Now, back to your studios and make them! We don't need you to carry rifles, nor do we need you at the barricades. The greatest military service you can do Russia is to go on acting and making the pictures which the soldiers need."

RESEARCH RESULTS

AN EXPERT in chemical research who teaches in one of our northern universities, said, in effect, that this war accomplishes a great good if by its destructive forces, it uses our natural resources, even almost to exhaustion. What he meant was that the greater the need for a product became, the more certainly that lack would bring to the front leadership in chemurgy and chemical engineering that would otherwise not be known. A real need starts research to supply it.

In Germany when petroleum was scarce, they made it, synthetically from coal. When that became too expensive, engineers devised a method of distilling wood to produce a gas to run civilian automobiles. When sugar drained to the vanishing point, it was also produced from wood; stock food was processed from sawdust; clothing from the same raw material.

In Italy, to find a variety of wheat that would yield a larger increase, one Nazerine Strampelli traveled over Europe and Asia. He selected and experimented until he had raised as much as 150 bushels on a single acre of land.

Immediately, I asked aloud, when I read the account. Could that happen in our country? And, yes, I told myself, we could furnish several Strampellis, when the need occurred.

We have no parallel example here except the introduction of hybrid corn. The old open pollinated method could not now supply our livestock. Dr. M. A. McCall, assistant chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, estimates that "the use of hybrid seed corn has added more than 500 million bushels to the 1942 crop—enough to produce five billion pounds of pork."

Smut in oats was eliminated by a simple treatment. Rust-resistant varieties were found in wheat, oats and barley.

Our tulip bulbs formerly came from Holland—many of our flower seeds were shipped in across the ocean. Now they are United States grown, anywhere from California north to Washington. Research in feeding practices has made big increases in beef, pork, poultry, mutton and wool, at no increase in cost. Milk production shows a 700-pound increase per cow, in 1942 over 1924. This came about by careful sanitation, better breeding, use of minerals and higher protein feeds.

Interest in soil conservation has gained widely in the last decade. Soil management has become of vital importance as the basis of all other industries.

Correspondents Discover Tunisian Hotel And Ernie Enjoys Mama's Peach Jam.

SOMEWHERE IN TUNISIA—Down in central Tunisia, in the village of Feriana, there is a little country hotel where four or five of us correspondents used to drop in now and then for a day or two to sleep under a roof and eat some of Papa's meals.

The hotel is run by a French family. Papa is big and mustached and always wears a cap and a dirty apron, and always has a burned-up cigaret in his mouth. He takes an instant like or dislike to newcomers, and the ones he doesn't like get short shrift.

Mama is plain and gray and sweet, and although she can't speak a word of English, paradoxically she can understand it. She never does a bit of the cooking; that is Papa's job and privilege. She sits at the kitchen table and sews and knits.

There are three boys in the vicinity of 15, all handsome and superior boys. Roget is our favorite, because he studied English in his school and we can converse with him. The three boys serve the meals. They also act as chambermaids.

Once when I was trying to write in the hotel, Roget came in to clean up. Immediately he called his two brothers, and they all stood in a circle for half an hour looking over my shoulder admiringly—not at the magic of my wonderful words, but at how fast my fingers worked the keyboard.

The hotel had one very dirty toilet, and in the rooms were merely washbowls and kerosene lamps. French soldiers slept on straw in the little lobby. There are always at least ten people in the kitchen, including a few neighbors, some stray French privates helping wash the dishes, and a French officer or two trying to learn English from Roget.

JACK THOMPSON of The Chicago Tribune found this place way back in November. As far as I know, it was the only operating hotel in all of Central Tunisia.

Jack kept two rooms there all winter, and they were like a headquarters. Jack himself might not be there one night a week, but if any other correspondents blew in we'd just walk in and settle down as though the rooms belonged to us.

Jack could do no wrong in Papa's eyes. Papa was so prejudiced in Jack's favor that he would never serve breakfast to anybody else until Jack came down for his.

Frank Kluckhohn of The New York Times used to get up early, hoping to get breakfast and get started out; and after a while he'd come back upstairs alternately cussing and laughing at the incongruity of being refused breakfast until Monsier Thompson also got ready to eat.

Papa just sort of tolerated me. He didn't detest me as he did some of the others; it was just that I hardly existed in his eyes. But I was one of Mama's favorites. She always got out her private homemade confiture (in this case marvelous peach jam) for me when I ate alone with the family in the kitchen.

I remember one morning when four of us correspondents were eating breakfast in the kitchen, and Mama got out the jam and made it quite plain it was for me alone. But Frank Kluckhohn didn't follow her reasoning, and helped himself to some of MY jam. Fortunately he didn't see the daggers Mama was looking at him. Poor Frank, he had a tough time eating in that place.

THE little hotel was a peaceful place for many weeks. Not much of the American army knew about it. We correspondents and a few fliers from a nearby airdrome, who came in once a week for dinner, were the only Americans around.

And then all of a sudden everything changed. The battle lines drew nearer. Within an hour one day the village was deluged with American troops. Trucks with Negro drivers filled the olive grove across the street. The grove on the other side was pitted deep with sudden slit trenches and great holes where tanks and half-tracks were half-hidden in the ground.

Soldiers flowed in and out of the hotel like water. The Germans were coming nearer. A couple of us correspondents sped in from another front, packed a few things into our jeep, and Papa and Mama and the boys stood waving at us as we dashed off again.

The next thing we knew Feriana was gone. The end came suddenly, and Papa and Mama and the boys had to get out in the middle of the night. Some of us saw them next day—nearly 30 miles away—trudging uphill behind a mule cart with a few of their things on it.

The German tide that washed over Feriana was brief, but the town was shelled by both sides. Maybe Papa and Mama and the boys will have things fixed up again by the time we get back there. No doubt the Germans cleaned out Papa's meager wine cellar. I don't care about that, but I hope they didn't find Mama's peach jam.

Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., has called on Americans to lend their dollars in backing up the fighting men by following an outlined five-point program:

1. Divert every cent not absolutely needed for life's necessities during the next three weeks to the purchase of war bonds—at least "one bond a week."

2. Buy bonds by sacrificing some of the things you have been planning to buy during that period.

3. Buy war bonds over and above your regular payroll deduction amount.

4. After you have bought extra bonds, see that every member of your family makes similar sacrifices.

5. If you handle all of your household income, make a blanket purchase of extra war bonds with money saved by cutting down unnecessary spending.

MRS. W. E. BENNINGHOFF WILL PRESENT REVIEW

Popular Reviewer of Books From Cleveland Will Present Review of William Saroyan's "The Human Comedy" April 30.

"THE Human Comedy" by William Saroyan, will be reviewed by Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff, popular book reviewer of Cleveland, who has appeared in Mansfield on several occasions, Friday evening, April 30 in the First Presbyterian church. The review, which is sponsored by the Women's Association of the First Congregational church will be given at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Benninghoff has presented her reviews for several years both afternoons and evenings so that men and women who are unable to attend during the day may be present. Tickets can be obtained from members of the women's association immediately.

"The Human Comedy," Saroyan's first novel, is a best seller. In many ways, the book parallels Saroyan's own life. It is a fairly short novel. The book is romantic and sentimental and full of the curiosity of childhood.

Harry Hansen of the New York World-Telegram, says that the novel "Gleams like a star amid the new books. It speaks direct to the human heart. It will bring comfort, cheer and hope."

"The book Americans want to read today. Saroyan preaches with a winning simplicity, that hate dies every minute, but that love is immortal," the statement made by Lewis Gannett of the New York Herald Tribune. The story centers around the MacAuley family, in Ithica, Calif.

MRS. A. C. BUTTERFIELD was hostess to members of the Cosmopolitan club when they met for tea at her home, with Mrs. C. A. McClure serving as associate hostess.

Mrs. V. H. Lodde presided at the business meeting, when Mrs. F. F. Wendt emphasized the bond drive. Mrs J. F. Daley told of the work of the dental clinic. Donations of $7 and $5 were given to the Camp fund of the Y. W. C. A and the Women's Club, respectively.

"The Panama Canal" was the theme of a paper presented by Mrs. D. G. Roth, program chairman. In her paper, Mrs. Roth told that the reasons for building the canal were to facilitate commerce, and that the canal was essential to the foreign policy.

The first ship passed through the canal Aug. 15, 1914, according to Mrs. Roth, but it was not formally opened until July, 1920. The canal is 50 miles long, and it takes a ship seven hours to go through it. When a ship is at the Pacific end, it is 27 miles farther east than when it is at the Atlantic end.

In 1940, Mrs Roth went on to say, congress authorized a third system of locks in order to minimize the danger of the canal being put out of commission, and to afford greater use by naval vessels.

Mrs. Roth then read an amusing account of Richard Halliburton's "Swimming the Canal," taken from his book, "New Worlds to Conquer."

A short paper on "Substitutes" was presented by Mrs. J F. Daley, who said that in spite of sweeping changes, substitutes will be more pleasing than the real articles. She told of the plastics, synthetics, enamels and various new textiles and substitutes in medicine.

The club's final luncheon at the Women's Club will be held April 30 with Mrs J. B Conard and Mrs. D. S Park as hostesses.

Mrs. Snoffer Has Meeting Of Missionary Group

The East Mansfield Women's Missionary society met at the home of Mrs. J. C. Snoffer, Park avenue east with 13 members and two guests, Mrs. J. C. Stenstrom and Mrs. Kenneth Banks, present.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Lola Keefer, president. Scripture was read in an Easter theme by Mrs. Earl Briggs.

Three officers were elected during a business meeting. They were Mrs. Snoffer, in charge of thank offerings, Mrs. Russell Lambert, floral committee chairman and Mrs. E. A. Davidson, society reporter.

Mrs. Frank Weinsberg was appointed chairman for the Mothers' day program to be given May 9 at the Sunday school. Mrs. Weinsburg had charge of the program for the society meeting, at which Mrs. Snoffer sang "He Lives."

Luncheon was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held May 4 at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Harsman.

Gamma Chapter Has Party For Pledge Members

One of the loveliest parties ever given by the Gamma chapter of Tri Gamma sorority was given recently in the form of a dessert bridge party for the pledges of the chapter, at the home of Mrs. H. Princehorn.

Mrs. Jack McKnight, sorority president, welcomed the new girls and invited them to become pledge members. Pledge pins were presented to them. The new pledges include Mrs. William Cunningham, Mrs. Dale Uhlie and Miss Marie Loesch.

High score prizes in bridge were won by Mrs. Uhlie, and Mrs. Robert Broiller.

Dessert was served at a late hour at a long table attractively decorated with blue and white flowers and lighted tapers.

The next meeting will be rough initiation, which will be held in the sorority's rooms. Mrs. Cunningham will be in charge of that meeting.

Mothers' Club Hears Talk By Rev. G. E. Swoyer

"Heredity and Environment" was the theme chosen by Rev. G. E. Swoyer, when he spoke recently to members of the Prospect Mothers club.

Three selections were sung by Mrs. Tingley, entitled "He's Such a Little Fellow," "The Lord Has Given Me a Song" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told."

Miss Lockmayer's room won the prize for the best attendance. The nominating committee appointed for the coming year include Mrs. Remy, Mrs. Edwards, and Mrs. Beech.

The May meeting will be in the form of a covered-dish dinner.

Marines Wear---

This smart forest green uniform is now being worn by members of the U. S. Marine Corps Women's Reserve, recently organized to free Leathernecks for combat duty. Aside from a flared skirt, the only striking difference from the regulation Marine winter uniform is a scarlet cord decorating the front of the visored cap. A scarlet wool muffler is a feminine complement to the top coat.

Zip Added To Ranks Of The Marine Corps

New zip has been added to the snappily dressed ranks of the U. S. Marine corps as the Women's Reserve steps into the breach to "Free a Marine to Fight."

Smartly clad in typical Marine fashion, the women marines wear a forest green uniform with a hip length unfitted coat, straight skirt and matching topcoat. There are two smart slash pockets and two welt pockets in the single breasted jacket.

The forest green cap, in a modified officer's style with rolled-edge crown, is set off with a scarlet braid chinstrap over the short visor.

Blouse and field scarf (necktie) are of khaki, while shoes, gloves, purse and shoulderstrap are of cordovan brown, the dress shoes a pump model with a flat bow over the vamp. For winter wear with the strictly tailored topcoat, there is a scarlet muffler to match the braid on the cap.

What the women marines wear under their uniforms is purely their own business, according to Major Ruth Cheney Streeter, director of the Women's Reserve. Regulations stop at the top layer.

The lady marines, who proudly wear the "globe, anchor and eagle" insignia of the U. S. Marine corps, rate the same rank and pay as the men of the corps, with the way open to advancement to the rank of captain.

The uniform is modelled by First Lieutenant Louise Stewart of the Marine Corps Women's Reserve.
